RECALL OF MAYOR KEY SOUGHT IN PETITIONS; GUARANTEE ORDERED AFTER "THREATS ON LIFE"

Claiming 'Emergency,' Rails Ask Freight Rate Hike

PETITION TO I. C. C. URGES INCREASE OF 15 PER CENT

Coal, Coke and Certain Other Commodities
Would Be Excepted, Although Paper Asks for General Advance.

FEDERAL GROUP SILENT ON REQUEST

Commission Refuses To Say When It Will Take Up Petition or What Course Will Be Taken.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—

On the plea that they are facing a financial emergency the railroads of the country today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a general 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The petition, after reciting the difficulties through which the roads have passed in the last year and a half, requested the commission to revise its rules so that supplemental tariffs based on percentages can be filed.

This has been done three times within the last 17 years and once the percentage method was invoked to lower rates. Under ordinary procedure specific rates for each item or class of freight must be filed.

The commission also was asked to let the new rates become effective at once. Under regular commission procedure changes are suspended for 30 days and organizations opposed are heard.

Exemptions.

While the petition specified that rates on "freight traffic generally" be increased by filing percentage supplements, it also provided that coal, coke and certain other unnamed commodities be exempted from the increase.

The railroads said they would file definite tariffs on the exempted articles to maintain present differentials.

Railroad men have predicted the net increase for the country at large would be about 10 per cent of the operating revenue of all roads. It is understood that freight which can be readily handled by truck and other competing methods probably will not receive the full increase when definite rates are filed.

The rate revision proposal comes to the commission after weeks of discussion by railroad executives and frequent statements during recent months that they would not raise rates but would cut heavily into railroad revenues.

It follows the general method used in increasing rates in 1914, when the roads received a 5 per cent increase; in 1917, when rates were raised 15 per cent, and in 1920, when increases from 25 to 40 per cent were granted. The commission used the same method in reducing rates 10 per cent in 1921.

Commission officials declined to say whether the petition will be considered or what procedure will be followed. Chairman Brandegee said there would

Power Substation Damaged by Dynamite

Dynamite tossed into the open door of a Georgia Power Company substation on Marietta road near the river early Wednesday evening exploded, endangering the life of R. L. Manderson, an employee of the company, and causing a fire which is tearing away a partition. The room into which the explosive was thrown houses the rotary converters, a vital part of the function of a substation, according to power company officials.

Manderson reported that the charge could not have been more than one "stick," because any more would have resulted in a considerably greater repercussion. He found paper such as is wrapped around dynamite, with which he is familiar, lying on the floor after the explosion, and also recognized the odor of dynamite, he said. It is believed that the dynamite was thrown in by some person riding or walking past the door, and is thought to be a resumption of the tactics of sabotage recently employed in an obvious effort to cripple the service of the company, according to Kenneth F. Sapp, of the power company.

Easier Divorce Laws Proposed in Georgia

ELLIJAY, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—

Watkins Edwards, state representative of Gilmer county, said today that he would favor easier divorce laws in this state.

"I am in favor of legislation that will permit a person to file suit for divorce in Georgia after having resided in Georgia three months instead of 12 months as under the existing law," he said.

"And I think one verdict by a jury should be all that is necessary to obtain a divorce, instead of two concurrent verdicts at different terms of the court, as now exists."

PRESIDENT VOICES PLEA FOR NATION TO OBSERVE LAWS

Address Marks Rededication of Lincoln Tomb.

Hoover Sees Need for Change in Government.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 17.—(AP)—

President Hoover closed his tour of the middle west today with a plea at the shrine of Abraham Lincoln for obedience and enforcement of the law.

Before going to the granite shaft rising over the remodeled tomb of the Civil War president, Mr. Hoover in an address to the Illinois assembly, emphasized the part of state government in the national life and asserted "our machinery of government must shift" to meet changing "economic and social forces."

It was a busy day for the president, beginning with a visit shortly after his arrival in the morning to the old frame structure occupied by Abraham Lincoln before he went to the White House 70 years ago.

Crowds lined his route throughout the day, an immense gathering assembling under the scorching sun at the cemetery. The silence of the crowds was broken by occasional applause. Entering the state arsenal across from the statehouse where the assembly and a throng of guests filled the vast auditorium, the president received a demonstration, as did Mrs. Hoover.

The president was introduced by Governor Emmerson, who said the president, "like Lincoln," was called from the ranks of the common people to lead our country in an hour of adversity.

The president then called the nation to the teachings of Lincoln that America's heritage "rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law."

"There can be no man in our country," he said, "who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the republic cannot admit and still live, for ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded only by law."

The president, in talking to the Illinois assembly, faced legislators who recently voted repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act. He stood beside the governor who refused to put that act into effect.

"Ours must be a country of constant change and progress," he told the assembly, "because of one fact alone amongst many others, and that is that the constant discoveries in science and their products in new invention shift our basis of human relationship and our mode of life in such a fashion as to require a constant remodeling and the remodeling of the machinery of the government."

Not Changed.

"That does not imply that the eternal principles of justice and right and ordered liberty, upon which the republic was founded, are subject to change, for they are not, but our machinery of government must shift in order to enable us to enforce those principles against the shift of economic and social forces due to these great processes of our state legislatures occupy a position of dominant importance to the nation as a whole."

He referred to state legislatures as the "laboratories" for trial of government problems.

The president brought with him Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain; and Secretary Lamont.

TOKYO, June 18.—(Thursday)—

Another earthquake, an active volcano in Nagano prefecture, burst into violent eruption at 11:30 a. m. today (9:30 p. m. Wednesday, eastern standard time). Tremendous rumblings accompanied the eruption. Ashes were showered upon neighboring villages.

The president then called the nation to the teachings of Lincoln that America's heritage "rests upon obedience and enforcement of the law."

"There can be no man in our country," he said, "who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law. That the republic cannot admit and still live, for ours is a government of laws and a society of ordered liberty safeguarded only by law."

300 Seniors Receive Diplomas At University of Georgia

DR. SAM W. SMALL
GIVEN SIXTH DEGREE

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—Dr.

Sam W. Small, of The Constitution, was awarded his sixth academic and third honorary degree here today at commencement exercises of the University of Georgia.

Dr. Small's three degrees, earned by academic work, are bachelor of arts and master of arts, from Emory and Henry College in Virginia, and doctor of philosophy from Taylor University, in Indiana.

In 1904 he was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of divinity by the Ohio Northern University, and on June 9, this year, he was made an honorary doctor of laws by Emory and Henry, his original alma mater.

The doctor of literature degree was conferred upon him today by the University of Georgia.

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, New York, director of the Institute of International Education, told the University of Georgia graduating class today the world's scientific and material contributions will be the basis for the world's future social organization.

He added that civilization of tomorrow probably will continue to see a decline of the white man's prestige, that the status of women will be improved and, referring to religion, that no institution, however sacred, will be accepted merely because it exists.

Nearly 300 seniors received diplomas at the closing exercises of the university today.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon the following:

Jesse Isidor Straus, president of R. H. Macy & Company, New York; L.L.D.; Sam W. Tate, Ga. former chairman of the state highway board, L.L.D.; Dr. Le Grand Querry, Columbia, S. C., physician, Sc.D.; Daniel H. Reynolds, Berry schools, Rome, Ga., D. Ped.; J. K. Walker, Monroe, Ga., head of the Fifth District, D. Ped.; and Sam W. Small, Atlanta newspaperman and author, Litt. D.

In the valedictory today, Thomas J. Crittenden, of Shellman, cited election of Richard B. Russell Jr., governor of Georgia, as an example of what young men may do in politics.

Friday Afternoon.

Plans for Fulton to take its place in the procession of Georgia counties organizing Roosevelt Clubs will be formulated at an organization meeting to be held in the chambers of Judge Jesse M. Wood on the second floor of the courthouse at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

For the purpose of establishing a medium through which to announce the purpose of the organization meeting, a temporary committee met Wednesday and fixed the hour for the Friday meeting. It is composed of Bond Almond, William G. Grant, C. E. Gregory, Gordon Hardy, Walter C. Hendrix, Frank Holden, Clark Howell Jr., Edwin P. Johnson, Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, Sam Levy, N. Baxter Maddox, Emmett L. Quinn, Joe W. Ray, R. J. Reynolds Jr., Frank K. Shaw, Charles B. Shelton, J. Hope Signer and Bruce F. Woodruff.

"This committee," an announcement issued after the meeting said, "expressed the opinion that the time is appropriate for Fulton county to follow the leadership of Meriwether and other Georgia counties in enlisting the support of the followers of Governor Roosevelt through the formation of Roosevelt-for-President Clubs in each county in the state."

"All friends of Governor Roosevelt," the statement added, "are invited to attend the meeting and to take part in its proceedings. The invitation applies to women as well as to men."

The committee club, of several

Better Equalized Tax System Is Advocated by Gov. Roosevelt

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—(UP)—

"We should get a larger proportion of our tax revenue from those who can afford it," Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, declared in an interview to be published Thursday by Country Gentleman, in which the governor's program on taxes, conservation, farm relief and farm marketing, tariff and foreign trade, including that with Russia, were outlined.

Of his tax relief statement, Roosevelt added:

"That may sound radical, but it is only common sense."

In brief, his ideas on other subjects discussed were that the federal farm board's stabilization attempt de-

20th Victim Claimed By Radium Poisoning

NEWARK, N. J., June 17.—(AP)—

Radium poisoning has claimed its twentieth victim from among former employees of the United States Radium Corporation's plant, now closed.

Mrs. Irene Frances Laporte, who contracted the disease while painting luminous watch dials, died during the night.

Chief Medical Examiner Harrison S. Martland, who in 1924 discovered the nature of the poisoning, reported after an autopsy Mrs. Laporte died of sarcoma of the hip and thigh caused by ingestion of radium.

MELLON CONFERS WITH M'DONALD ON LONDON VISIT

Secretary's Call Purely Social, He Declares After 45-Minute Conference With Premier.

LONDON, June 17.—(AP)—Professing to be in London on a visit that is strictly for pleasure, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon called upon Prime Minister MacDonald this afternoon at his office and spent 45 minutes in conversation with him.

The secretary of the treasury said afterward that his visit with the prime minister was purely social and afforded an opportunity to confer here with acquaintanceship.

He refused any further comment on the visit with the prime minister or on his visit to England but it was indicated that he would probably confer again with newspapermen tomorrow morning.

Since he landed from the Mauretania at Southampton the secretary has declined to speak of political matters, either American domestic politics or the question of European war debt revision. In spite of official denials, there still persists in certain quarters a belief the war debt revision question has some connection with his visit.

He visited his daughter tonight, and plans to visit his son, who is graduating at Cambridge University.

He will be in London for three weeks before coming to the continent. It was thought probable he will have the viewpoints of the various Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who arrives here soon.

Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson was present during the visit. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's conversation with Secretary Mellon.

It was understood tonight that Secretary Mellon and the prime minister will confer again tomorrow afternoon at MacDonald's office in the house of commons, where this afternoon's meeting took place.

GERMAN LEADERS PREPARE FOR NEXT STEP IN FIGHT

BERLIN, June 17.—(AP)—Fortified by some degree of peace and confidence in their home political front, Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius made preparations today for their next move in the delicate problem of achieving revision of reparations.

They are getting ready for a series of conferences with the German ambassadors to the creditor nation, at which the viewpoints of the various governments concerned will be thoroughly surveyed.

Carl Von Schubert, ambassador to Italy, already in Berlin. Leopold Von Hoesch, envoy to France, arrives from Paris tomorrow, and Ambassador Von Prittwitz, Germany's representative in the United States, is expected shortly.

At the foreign office reparations experts worked feverishly today getting data in shape for the ambassadorial conferences, but official information on Brüning's plans was extremely scarce—nor is it expected that the curtain of reticence will be lifted appreciably until after Secretary of State Stimson arrives in the middle of July.

The highest importance is attached by the press to the visits of Secretary Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The expectation in well informed circles is that Germany will invoke the warlord provisions of the Young plan soon after the situation has been laid before these representatives of the United States, in other words, early in August.

FINCH REVEALS OUSTER PROPOSAL

Enough Signers To Cause Election Certain, Attorney Says; Supporters

Simultaneously with the announcement by his opponents here Wednesday that petitions seeking recall of the city's chief executive are being circulated Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, announced that a special police guard would be furnished Mayor James L. Key when he arrives from Paris. The guard was ordered by Mayor Walker after he had been informed that Luke Arnold, Mr. Key's executive secretary, had mailed to him a letter asking the detail, Arnold reporting that he had heard threats against the life of Mayor Key were being made in Atlanta.

Meanwhile, friends of Mayor Key continued to formulate plans for a great reception they plan to give the executive on his return from Paris, where he has been a visitor to the colonial exposition with mayors of other leading American cities.

Mayor Walker announced the guard would be given Mr. Key after he had been informed that Arnold's letter was en route. The New York executive will not receive the letter until today.

"Mayor Key will be given a police detail large enough to fully insure his personal safety," Mayor Walker said. "So will any other mayor who may be in jeopardy."

The recall-seeking petitions are being circulated over Atlanta by George Finch, an attorney, said Wednesday night. Finch is counsel for a taxpayer who early this year filed quo warranto proceedings seeking to oust Mayor Key on the ground that the legislature in lengthening the term of office of Atlanta's mayor intended that the law should apply to the term of Mayor Key on the ground that then was in office serving on his second two-year term. The petition was denied by the Fulton superior court in June 5 before the state supreme court.

Arnold dispatched his letter to Mayor Walker, telling of threats to his personal safety, who invaded the executive's home, while friends of the mayor were planning a mammoth parade for Atlanta's own good will ambassador slated to eclipse any former effort.

Included in the list of official greet-ers will be leading ministers, civic, business leaders, doctors, lawyers and other professional men, as well as "thousands of just good plain Atlantans who want to pay tribute to a man who dared speak the truth about the city's government."

Arnold declined to amplify on the threats against the mayor, except to say that several had made such statements in the mayor's office and that he felt he could not overlook them. We could not afford to take a chance on overlooking them and then

BRIDGE CONTRACT READY FOR COUNTY

Early Start on Broad Street Work Is Seen by Leaders.

Early start on reconstruction of the Broad street viaduct was seen Wednesday when City Attorney James L. Mayson reviewed the contract by which the borough and Fulton county will co-operate in bearing expense of the project.

The new paper will be placed in the hands of Fulton county commissioners today with every prospect that bids will be advertised for immediately and that the work can be completed this summer.

Borough officials have set up $34,000 for the work, and the county has agreed to supplement that fund with the amount needed to complete the work if the additional amount does not exceed $34,000.

half way over he came to his senses, and returned home. He later found the gun was unloaded.

"Mrs. Vanderbilt has left the house and it is being occupied by Mr. Vanderbilt. This is the situation as it was presented to me."

The Vanderbilts, frequent visitors here, came to Reno several weeks ago, apparently in connection with some motion picture work in which Vanderbilt is interested.

Arno came here about the same time from New York with the idea of seeking a divorce. During his residence here his name has frequently been linked with that of Florence Rice Smith, daughter of Grantland Rice, the sports writer. Mrs. Smith, former wife of Sydney O. Smith, New York broker, termed "ridiculous" rumors she was to marry Arno.

Chief of Police Kinkley earlier today said he had heard nothing about the affair. He said Vanderbilt is permitted to carry a gun because he holds Souter further denied Arno had been showing attention to Vanderbilt's wife.

INCOME TAX NETS STATE $301,200

Cigar and Cigarette Stamps Bring Georgia $160,000 for Month.

June state income tax installments Wednesday had reached a total of $301,200.99 and cigar and cigarette stamp taxes for the period ending June 15 showed an increase of $83,093.33 over the same month of last year.

R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, said he expected an even larger collection for the installment of income taxes due in September and collections for the year of approximately $1,500,000.

Cigarette and cigar stamp taxes for June 15 period amounted to $160,334.70, as compared with $150,385.39 for the preceding month.

Splendid co-operation of taxpayers in conforming to the new law was reported by H. E. Matheson, revenue commissioner.

U. S. DEFICIT HITS NEW HIGH LEVEL

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The largest federal deficit since the war today presented a formidable front to an assault of income taxes crippled by the depression.

In spite of an increase of $8,000,000 in the red ink total today, treasury officials maintained that the bill-dollar balance of the federal budget will fall below President Hoover's estimate of $950,000,000 before the financial year end on June 30.

The increase today was announced in a treasury statement of accounts to the close of business June 15, and brought the total deficit to $1,099,900,063.

An allotment to the postal deficiency of $7,500,000 combined with general departmental expenses of $14,850,000, or double the preceding day's outlay, furnished the chief causes for the increase.

Income tax receipts of $11,984,411 were ineffective in meeting this enlarged outlay, and expenditures for the day with only two weeks to the close of the fiscal year exceeded collections by over $100,000.

Although June 15 was the last day for paying second tax installments on 1930 incomes, officials do not expect the major portion of the returns to be filed until tabulations are completed for June 16 and 17. If the March quarterly payments afford a comparison, second and third day tabulations will exceed the first by approximately three and seven times, respectively.

Total June income tax collections have been estimated at $290,000,000, as against $239,557,735 in March. June collections to date are $46,528,970.

Postoffice officials had estimated the 1931 deficiency at $140,000,000. Payments to date are about $6,000,000 below this figure.

Meanwhile, figures on departmental expenditures during eleven months of the year revealed only two actual decreases in the operating costs of federal establishments, as compared with the same period a year before.

The White House account dropped $172,000 to $476,000, while the navy department outlay was $326,074,000, a decline of $21,130,000. The interior department went from $261,828,000 to $83,456,000 but its pension functions were transferred to the veterans' administration, which showed an increase of $234,212,000 for a total of $642,677,000.

The turnover in the public debt from July 1, 1930, to June 15, 1931, aggregated more than $12,306,000,000. New issues came to $6,404,000,000; retirements to $5,870,000,000, including a debt increase of over $600,000,000 for the year.

The expenditures of other principal government departments were: Legislative establishment, $22,475,000; increase, $4,000,000.

State department, $14,239,000; increase, $1,451,000.

Treasury department, $181,648,000; increase, $4,405,000.

War department, $438,690,000; increase, $25,903,000.

Justice department, $40,316,000; increase, $10,700,000.

Agriculture department, $253,552,000; increase, $85,568,000.

Commerce department, $56,629,000; increase, $11,908,000.

Labor department, $10,745,000; increase, $1,277,000.

SEASON POT-ROAST WITH SUGAR AS WELL AS SALT

Combined Flavors of Sugar and Salt Blend Deliciously with Meat

These are days when there are always bargains on the meat counter. A lady who bought a chuck-roast for 45 cents—made a tasteful discovery by cooking it as follows:

Sear and brown both sides of the meat in an iron or pot-roast kettle containing two or three tablespoons of fat. Then sprinkle top surface of the meat with sugar as well as salt. Add about a cupful of water, then cover the kettle and cook for an hour. Turn the meat and sprinkle newly exposed side with sugar and salt. Continue cooking until the meat is tender, adding just enough water to keep the meat from burning. Serve with the gravy which remains in the kettle, thickened with flour if you wish. You'll be surprised at the unusual, full-bodied flavor in the meat as well as in the gravy.

Cheap cuts of lamb respond to this seasoning if you prefer that meat to beef. Vegetables also are more tasteful when a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is added. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute. (adv.)

COURT DISMISSES BREMEN BANK SUIT

Restraining Order Against State Superintendent Is Dissolved by Humphries.

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, Wednesday dissolved a restraining order against A. R. Mobley, superintendent of banks and his agents, in the liquidation of the Bank of Bremen, and dismissed a demurrer a suit brought by W. B. Williamson, Mrs. W. H. Williamson and H. Meeks, in which the liquidation was criticized.

The general demurrer, sustained by the court, declared the plaintiffs criticized J. J. Manigault, liquidating agent, for not completing the liquidation earlier, and now criticize him because it is his desire to wind it up.

The defendants insisted the plaintiffs "cannot blow both hot and cold."

The demurrer pointed out that two of the plaintiffs, Meeks and Mrs. Williamson, are debtors of the bank, and said "the gravamen of the charge is that he disregarded the wishes of the majority of the stockholders in that he is seeking to collect past-due debts owing by the plaintiffs."

Williamson, the demurrer said, is the only plaintiff who was a stockholder, and "he claims he has paid only one-half of his assessment, although he alleges a 100 per cent assessment was made."

DURBAN, Natal, June 17.—(AP)—Fourteen natives, including four young girls, were massacred near Kranskop, Natal, late last night, when a rival group, spurred by tribal jealousy, attacked a wedding feast with assegais (iron-tipped spears).

1 Dead as Flames Damage Huge Liner

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 17.—(UP)—The $7,000,000 Furness liner Bermuda was partly destroyed by fire today and sank to the harbor bottom with a heavy list. At least one life was lost in the blaze, which destroyed the superstructure, burning or greatly damaging the A, B and C decks.

A charred body was taken from the vessel after the fire had been brought under control. It was believed to be the body of Percy Helme, assistant harbor on the Bermuda and a British citizen.

About 20 sailors who aided land and water fire fighting forces were overcome by smoke and taken to the hospital.

Year Old, Latest Tariff Act Established as 1932 Issue

Parties Reiterate Stands Taken Year Ago as Smoot-Hawley Statute Has Birthday.

BY WILLIAM L. BEALE.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Its first birthday finds the Hawley-Smoot tariff a lusty political issue promising more robustness with the approach of the 1932 presidential race.

It was a year ago today that President Hoover signed the bill over which congress had labored 18 months. Two days earlier he had announced his approval with the statement:

"No tariff bill has ever been enacted or ever will be enacted under the present system that will be perfect. . . . It is bound to contain some inequalities and inequitable compromises. There are items upon which duties will prove too high and others upon which duties will prove too low."

Simultaneously, Jonett Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, proclaimed the new act "the issue" in the 1930 congressional race, a challenge immediately accepted by administration leaders at the time. Both sides have renewed their willingness to accept the act as the issue.

In the congressional race, now history, democrats reduced a large republican house majority to a margin that leaves control of the next congress in doubt.

Marking the anniversary of the signing of the bill, Shouse declared today that the president has "defaulted on his promise to remedy the inequities of the 'ghostly measure' through the flexible tariff provisions."

ANOTHER QUAKE IS FELT IN EUROPE

quake of 1923, which took 100,000 lives, members of the Young Men's Association of Tokyo were called out last night. These young men have been trained by the military to visit, in case of emergency, theaters and other public places where crowds are assembled.

The young men remained on duty until after midnight.

Several theater performances here were interrupted by last night's quake. In the Kabuki theater, one of Tokyo's largest, a comedian tried to make light of the shock. Some of the audience hurried into the street, but most of them remained in their seats.

ROYALIST REVOLT RUMORED IN SPAIN

MADRID, June 17.—(AP)—Rumors of an imminent monarchist coup d'etat, to be led by General Martinez Anido for the purpose of seating on the Spanish throne Don Jaime De Bourbon, Carlist pretender, were published in several evening papers in Spain today.

The rumors, as published, reported that General Anido, former captain-general of Barcelona, was on his way to the province of Navarre to lead an army in an attempt to place Don Jaime on the throne.

The general is now facing prosecution by the republican government for his administration at Barcelona. He was a member of the cabinet of General Primo De Rivera and has been active in Spanish politics under the monarchy for many years.

Last Sunday a demonstration of 20,000 Catholics was held at Pamplona, capital of Navarre. Don Jaime was reported to have sent telegrams to Pamplona congratulating the people on these meetings and the crowd was reported as having shouted "Long live Christ the king! Long live Don Jaime!"

One man was killed and a number were wounded in riots which occurred at a way station and anti-clerical troops clashed with the trains and automobiles carrying the Catholics from the meeting.

On April 23 Don Jaime, who is the son of the late Don Carlos, Spanish pretender against the house of King Alfonso, issued a manifesto to the Spanish people, in which he declared that he was always ready to help Spain avoid anarchy. He asked the people, in the elections which were soon to come, to declare whether they were republican or monarchist and invited them to favor a monarchy which would have no relations with the Alfonso regime but which would be "renewed, progressive and decentralized."

"My desire," he said, "is to have a king head a federation—a king above parties. A great part of the Spanish people favors the monarchy, even the republicans admit. It is unjust to suppress the monarchy because one king did not know how to make the people love him."

In the manifesto which was published at Paris Don Jaime laid claim to the throne for himself.

Several years after the dethronement of Queen Isabella II in 1868, Don Carlos, father of Don Jaime, asserted his pretensions to the throne by force of arms, but was defeated by King Amedeo and became a fugitive.

He made another attempt to ascend the throne during the first republic, but was again driven out of Spain. In the meantime, his cousin, Alfonso XII, was crowned and was succeeded upon his death by former King Alfonso XIII.

PAMPLONA CIVIL GOVERNOR IS ENROUTE TO MADRID

PAMPLONA, NAVARRIE, Spain, June 17.—(AP)—Jesus Diaz Del Rio, civil governor of Pamplona, left for Madrid tonight, and other local authorities scouted rumors cited in Madrid newspapers that General Martinez Anido was preparing to lead a coup d'etat in Navarre.

They said the governor's departure indicated that no new developments were expected.

Miss Pat Hall, Miss Atlanta in the Galveston international beauty contest, who finished fifth in the competition for Miss Universe, has signed a contract to appear in the forthcoming edition of Earl Carroll's Vanities, it was learned Wednesday night.

Miss Netta Duchateau, who as Miss Belgium, was awarded the title of the Alfonso regime but which would be "renewed, progressive and decentralized."

"My desire," he said, "is to have a king head a federation—a king above parties. A great part of the Spanish people favors the monarchy, even the republicans admit. It is unjust to suppress the monarchy because one king did not know how to make the people love him."

SITE OBTAINED FOR CURB MART

Atlanta's curb market problem has been solved, Harry Brown, Fulton county agricultural agent, announced Wednesday. LINDBERGH NAMES TENTATIVE ROUTE

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has tentatively decided on the route for his forthcoming flight to the orient, but this is to be a vacation trip and no definite schedule will be followed.

He said today he and his wife were working on a course leading northward to Hudson bay, over to Point Barrow, Alaska, on the Arctic ocean, down Behring Strait to the Aleutian islands, and along them to Japan and so to China.

Whether or not they actually fly this route, however, depends among other things on their ability to arrange for fuel depots along the way. Even if this is fixed up they will not feel bound to follow any definite course, local conditions at the time being their sole guide.

As Colonel Lindbergh is carrying a powerful wireless set, and since both he and Mrs. Lindbergh have become adequately proficient operators, it will be possible to keep in constant touch with ships and land stations. In this way they will know at all times what sort of weather is ahead and can alter their course to take advantage of the most favorable conditions.

Open House at the Atlanta Plant of the Ford Motor Company

Open daily from 1:00 P. M. to 9 P. M. through Friday Evening, June 19th. The Ford Plant is at 699 Ponce de Leon Avenue and is easily reached by street car, bus or auto.

Be sure to come! You'll see the Ford assembly line in action—interesting details of Ford all-steel body construction—a talking motion picture of a trip through the Ford Detroit Plant—and many other special features.

Friday, June 19th, is the last Open House Day at the Atlanta Plant. Don't miss this unusual opportunity to see the many modern and interesting methods that contribute to the permanence, beauty, and low cost of the Ford car.

Here is the continuous conveyor system that revolutionized the automobile industry—where you can watch the Ford built up from the first minor assembly to the completed car that is driven away under its own power. You can see why Ford all-steel body gives added safety and how paint, enamels, and upholstery are applied. Guides thoroughly familiar with all details of manufacture will show you around and answer all your questions.

A talking motion picture of a trip through the Detroit plant is shown continuously and a corps of experienced drivers see to it that all visitors who wish it get a ride in the new Ford. You are cordially invited to pay us a visit—and we are sure that you will find the time well spent. There's no admission charge.

Interest in Open House is so widespread that special trains are carrying visitors from many points outside of Atlanta directly into the Ford Plant.

U. S. WILL AID POLICE IN LIQUOR WAR HERE

Help Will Be Given City and County in Drive, H. P. Wright Says.

Federal aid in the war against bootleggers in Atlanta as the outgrowth of an unsuccessful effort to condemn prohibition is not enforceable, was seen Wednesday when H. P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator, pledged support to the borough and county in the drive.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers has asserted that the police are inadequate to cope with the violation of the Volstead act because of lack of numbers, but has issued orders that all members of the department do his utmost to enforce the dry laws.

Governmental assistance was pledged in a letter to Councilman John A. While, co-author of a council resolution directing the police department to enforce the law.

"I am glad and willing at all times to co-operate fully with the chief of police and his officers, the solicitor-general and his assistants, and the sheriff of this county, and all other counties, in enforcement of the prohibition law," Mr. Wright wrote Councilman White Wednesday after the latter visited him.

"Anything this office can do to assist in any way in bringing about better conditions will be a pleasure. We will be glad to lend our aid and support to this end."

MERCHANTS LAUD TOURIST BUREAU

Confident that the $50,000 expansion program of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau will be subscribed quickly, J. P. Allen, president of J. P. Allen Company and the Retail Merchants' Association, and A. R. Dorsen, manager of J. M. High Company, Wednesday announced their support of the campaign, designed to bring a greater number of meetings and tourists here.

"We entertained 350 conventions last year," said Mr. Allen, "on a death of funds—in fact, it was handicapped greatly. Atlanta is proud of its past record, but the future counts now. One great hope for business is the number of conventions and tourists we get here next year."

Said Mr. Dorsen: "If we desire to increase our convention and tourist business, and certainly we do, we must back the bureau to the full. I believe businessmen will do it, mindful of the vast financial dividends which we can earn on so small an investment."

SEVEN GET PENALTIES ON DRY LAW CHARGES

Seven prohibition defendants pleaded guilty Wednesday in federal court. Sentences passed by Judge E. Marvin Underwood ranged from 2 months to 18 months. Ernest H. Wilkins, of Troup county, drew the 18-month term and Lon Ogletree, of Troup county, was given 15 months. One defendant, John Wesley Woodard, of Troup county, was given a fine of $500 for possession of four gallons of whisky. Others sentenced were: Willie Jacobs, Troup county, five months; Luther Kelly, Troup county, five months; W. M. Posten, Carroll county, two months; Felix Renter, Troup county, six months.

Variety Program To Be Sponsored By Yaarab Patrol

Elaborate plans for a "variety entertainment" sponsored by Yaarab patrol for public presentation at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, June 25, in the Egyptian ballroom of the Shrine Mosque, are being formulated. Chairman Walter Dunn announced Wednesday.

The entertainment will provide a program of musical selections and many forms of dancing in addition to a number of novelties.

A series of violin, piano and viola selections will be rendered by Mrs. Theodora Morgan-Stephens and her daughter, Aileen.

Modern acrobatic and tap dancing will be presented under direction of Jack Rand, while Mrs. Sarah Shawn will supplement the elaborate entertainment with tap and Oriental dances. A feature Arabian slide dance and jazz-tap dance will be rendered by Miss Mary Agnes Crawford, who will present Miss Edith Logue and Miss Miriam Witt in tap and acrobatic numbers.

An unusual form of the entertainment will be the modeling in clay of a portrait of Richard N. Fickel, Jr., potentate of Yaarab temple, by J. Don Amazon, Atlanta sculptor. Tickets are available at Jacobs Pharmacy in the First National bank building and in the Shrine Mosque building, the Fuller Soda Company, Healey building, and the Cable Piano Company.

CHURCH TO DEDICATE NEW CHIMES SUNDAY

The new chimes, presented to the First Presbyterian church by E. P. McBurney in memory of his father and mother, will be dedicated in special ceremonies at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, in the church building, according to an announcement Wednesday. Dr. J. Spore Lyons, pastor, will deliver the dedicatory sermon.

Following the sermon the first public sounding of the chimes will take place under the direction of Dr. Charles A. Sheldon Jr., organist and choir director.

The offertory, "When They Ring the Golden Bells," will be followed by a violin solo entitled "Adoration," played by Franklin L. S. Walter. At the conclusion of the church services Mr. Walter will play selections on the chimes. He will also give a recital on the chimes at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All services will be broadcast over station WAB.

The chimes, 15 in number, are electrically controlled and may be played from the organ console, from a special keyboard in the choir loft, or by mechanical rolls, similar to those used in a player piano. Any tune in the Presbyterian hymnal may be played upon them.

BEAMAN TO ADVERTISE MERGER PLAN TODAY

Advertisement of the DeKalb-Fulton county merger bill will be launched today in the DeKalb New Era following a number of meetings at which a rapidly growing sentiment has been expressed in favor of the consolidation. The bill, prepared by Hal Lindsay, will be introduced in the legislature by Representative Henry A. Beaman, of DeKalb county. The measure provides for elections in both counties.

Representative Beaman plans also to introduce a bill calling for an election of delegates to a convention for the purpose of revising or amending the state constitution. The bill would provide for a referendum of the people as to whether or not the convention will be held, and, in the event the convention does not carry the delegates will not assemble. Beaman also is interested in a bill to provide that where a property owner has returned more than one piece of property they will be reduced to separate fi. fas., each piece of land standing on its own bottom for its own tax, the highest assessed piece of property carrying the personal property return. This measure would also provide that where tax deeds are made, the deed is to remain in the hands of the tax collecting authority for the full period of redemption. This would tend to eliminate a "tax deed racket" that has developed in the larger cities, Beaman said.

STATE AID SOUGHT ON MEMORIAL DRIVE

Representatives of the borough of Atlanta, the Twelfth Ward Improvement Club, DeKalb county and Avondale Estates Wednesday appeared before the state highway board urging approval of Memorial drive, old Fair street, from Capitol avenue to Avondale Estates as a state project. The proposed highway would connect at Avondale Estates with the new memorial drive now under construction to Stone Mountain. Members of the board took the request under advisement.

Projects engineers estimate will total $1,750,000 will be let by the board July 15, it was announced Wednesday after a two-day session of the board.

L. D. T. QUINBY HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

L. D. T. Quinby, deputy city marshal, who was seriously hurt in an automobile accident Sunday while en route to New York to visit his daughter, Tuesday was taken to his home at 34 Peachtree circle, where he is expected to be confined for several months, members of the family reported Wednesday.

Mr. Quinby suffered a complete fracture of the pelvis bone when he was thrown against the side of the automobile. He was riding with friends near Lavonia when the car skidded into a ditch when a tire blew out. Mr. Quinby planned to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Sturgis, in New York. Mrs. Quinby, who was visiting another daughter in Virginia, returned to Atlanta.

EIGHTEEN ARRESTED IN MINE DISORDERS

ST CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, June 17.—(P)—Eighteen persons were arrested in this region today in connection with the strike of coal miners in the eastern Ohio coal fields. As minor disorders continue in the district, officials said Ohio national guardsmen would not be called in unless local authorities lost control of the situation.

MILICAN TO OPEN PRODUCTS EXHIBIT

Talmadge Will Make Address Tonight at Atlanta Market.

Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican will open the first Georgia products festival ever held at the Atlanta market tonight at 7 o'clock. Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, is slated to make an address beginning at 8 o'clock.

The festival will extend through Saturday, according to Miss Eula Lang, market mistress.

Atlanta police band and the Atlanta fire department band are scheduled to furnish music. The police band will begin playing immediately after the opening of the festival.

Leaders of the Atlanta Woman's Club will be present, and tonight will be open house for all Atlantans. A special reception committee has been named, with Councilman J. Frank Heck, president of the market, as master of ceremonies.

The market this week is observing its seventh birthday, and officials are intensely interested in a dual program—to interest the housewife in the commodities which can be procured at such reasonable prices and to give the Georgia farmer an outlet for his produce.

"Refreshments will be served to night and every effort made to cement the interests of the housekeepers of Atlanta and those of the producers," Miss Lang said.

CITY CLUB DEPLORES DEATH OF R. A. MAGILL

Resolutions expressing their grief at the death of Richard A. Magill, vice president of the City Club, who died Wednesday, June 10, have been adopted by officers and members of the club. The resolutions pay tribute to Mr. Magill as a citizen and officer of the club and laud his contributions of service and financial aid to the various charities in which he was interested.

TOBIE GRANT ERECTS MARKER TO MOTHER

Formal dedication of a monument erected by Tobie Grant in memory of the late "Aunt" Nancy Kendall, mother of widely-known negro woman, to feature opening of the Washington Park cemetery, Sunday afternoon, June 21, is expected to attract thousands of members of the race.

A parade from the courthouse at Decatur to the cemetery, a free barbecue and addresses by prominent white and colored speakers are scheduled as high lights of the event.

WATKINS ISSUES PLEA TO PARENTS

Children of today will become the gangsters or the good citizens of tomorrow, according to the way they are dealt with, Judge Garland M. Watkins, of the juvenile court, stated Wednesday in an appeal issued to promote the work of the National Probation Association.

"Day after day, Judge Watkins said, 'children come before me who have never had a real chance in life. They are usually products of wretched homes and incompetent parents. The National Probation Association, in whose behalf I am appealing for funds, is helping juvenile courts and probation departments all over the country to attain enviable standards in their work. The association aids probation officers, introduces laws and improves methods. It finds work to do wherever children are neglected."

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

FARM BOARD REFUSES TO WITHHOLD WHEAT

Stabilization Corporation Retains Right To Sell To Best Advantage.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The farm board will not pledge itself to withhold stabilization wheat from domestic markets for another year.

The board intends to pursue its policy announced on March 23 of handling the wheat "in such a way as to impose the minimum of burden upon domestic and world prices."

A number of mid-western grain men have requested the board to withhold the wheat for another year to remove what has been described as an unerring influence on present grain prices.

Newspaper Reunites Mother, Missing Son

RALEIGH, N. C., June 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Tucker, of Jamaica, N. Y., who came to Raleigh to visit relatives because she was heart sick over the disappearance several weeks ago of her son, William, 16, from their home, was reunited with him today.

A newspaper story brought them together. He, a runaway who grew tired here of seeking adventure, asked help of the Traveler's Aid in getting back to Jamaica. The agency learned she was in Raleigh, but could not locate her. Today she read the newspaper story of the situation and found her son.

Farmer Indicted.

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 17.—(AP)—John Holloway, an aged farmer of the Molino vicinity, stands indicted today on a first-degree murder count, the allegations being that he shot and killed Toy Perry, 32, his son-in-law. Perry, it was shown, had been shot in the back.

FATE OF FALL HANGS ON PHYSICAL EXAM

Denunciation by Hoover Precludes Probability of Pardon.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Whether Albert B. Fall will serve his prison term apparently hung tonight on the verdict of army physicians on his physical condition.

District Attorney Hoover today said the former cabinet member who expected "immediately" to enter William Beaumont hospital near El Paso, Texas, for an examination.

If the doctors think he is able to stand the trip to Washington, he will come here for commitment. He is under sentence of a year, in addition to a fine of $100,000.

Fall has not yet asked executive clemency, but President Hoover's denunciation at Marion, Ohio, of those who "betrayed" Warren G. Harding was taken as a clear indication there would be no pardon.

Fall was Harding's interior secretary and he was a factor in a moving force in leasing naval oil reserves to private companies. One of these leases led to the prison sentence. A jury decided that he had accepted a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny.

Fall has said he is ready for the physical examination. He maintains his innocence, despite the jury verdict and the fact the supreme court termed him a "faithless public officer."

SPAIN KEEPS SILENCE ON VATICAN MESSAGE

MADRID, June 17.—(AP)—The government tonight was studying a new note from the Vatican, believed to embody a protest over the expulsion of Cardinal Primate Segura from Spain. No information was forthcoming on the subject.

The new note was presented to Foreign Minister Lerroux by Papal Nuncio Federico Tedeschini today, but neither was willing to discuss its contents.

Meanwhile Bishop Eijo made a personal protest of the removal of Segura in an interview with President Niceto Alcala Zamora. He said the act had a "distinctly anti-religious tint which undoubtedly will make difficult the work of all prelates like myself who wish to serve the republic loyally in a time when it is essential to aid in the reorganization of the nation."

Another religious incident occurred in Valencia today when a priest was fined $50 by the governor for allegedly permitting the playing of the formal Royal March during church services.

Cyrus Curtis Gives More Than Million To Pennsylvania U.

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—(AP)—In delivering the commencement address today, closing the 1931 academic year, President Thomas S. Gates announced that Cyrus H. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher, had "made an unrestricted gift to the University of Pennsylvania of something more than one million dollars."

It was one of four announcements made by President Gates, who left an outstanding position in the financial world a year ago to become head of the university.

It was also made known that Dr. Alfred Stengel, Philadelphia physician and medical consultant, had been named vice president of the University for Medical Affairs. There are three other vice presidents—administration, undergraduate education and legal education.

President Gates also announced that Charley Day, widely known engineer who died recently, had left $100,000 as an unrestricted fund to the university.

The other announcement was that the board of trustees had determined on $20,000,000 for endowment, as the minimum goal of Pennsylvania's financial effort within the next year or two.

GA. POWER WINS NATIONAL HONORS

NEW YORK, June 17.—Dunlop honors were conferred on the Georgia Power Company here today when the Public Utilities Advertising Association elected John R. Marsh, manager of the Georgia company's public relations department, to membership on its board of directors and also awarded two prizes to the company for outstanding advertisements published in 1930.

The advertising awards made to the Georgia company were second prize in better copy contest, electric railway division, for an advertisement captioned "Here Come the Elephants," published in the Atlanta Journal, and second prize in the car cards and poster division for a poster which appeared on Atlanta street cars depicting a long row of "No Parking" signs and carrying the caption, "Shop by Street Car."

This is the third year in which Georgia Power Company advertising has won national recognition.

25 ARE INJURED IN SYDNEY RIOT

SYDNEY, Australia, June 17.—(AP)—Nine policemen and 16 communists were injured today in what was described as the fiercest battle between radical elements and authorities in the history of the city. A bystander was shot in the thigh.

Occupants of a house in the Banks-town quarter resisted an eviction order and transformed the house into a fortress. They stretched barbed wire around the place and connected it to electric power lines.

Police switched off the power, cut the entanglements and stormed the house in the teeth of a fusillade of stones and bricks. After smashing in the doors, they subdued the communists and took them to jail.

NATION'S FARM YOUTHS MEET IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Farm boys and girls, here for the fifth annual National 4-H conference combined sightseeing and agricultural problems in their first day in camp. Dr. C. B. Smith, chief of the office of co-operative extension work, greeted the 156 campers and their leaders who came from 40 states at the opening assembly this morning.

HEARING FOR CUYLER IS AGAIN POSTPONED

ALBANY, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—By agreement between his attorneys and the executive office, an extradition hearing in the case of Telemaco Cruz Cuyler, scheduled for today, was postponed until June 25. Cuyler, who owns a German plantation, is wanted by New Jersey authorities on a conspiracy charge in connection with a metals swindle. He was arrested in New York city.

Special Trains Bring Crowds to Ford Open House

Nearly a thousand out-of-town people were the guests Tuesday of the Ford Motor Company, celebrating their open house. These and 5,000 Atlantans passed through the plant on a tour to see just how Ford cars are put together. Above is shown part of the 350 people who came up on a special train of the Southern railway from Columbus, Ga. The special trains are brought up into the sheds of the Ford plant for the various parties to alight there. Included in this group are some of the most prominent businessmen of the state, all interested in what Mr. Ford is doing. Two trains are scheduled to arrive each day throughout the week. The Ford Motor Company has opened the doors of its plant to the public for everyone to see how a car is assembled. The doors are open from 1 until 9 p. m.

HOOVER WILL DECIDE ON MINE CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Secretary Donaghy returning to Washington late today said there would be no decision on the request of John L. Lewis for a conference on the coal mining situation until after President Hoover returns.

JURORS GIVEN CASE AGAINST PANTAGES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 17.—(AP)—Deliberations were begun by a jury of nine men and three women late today in the case of Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, and three others, tried on a felony charge of conspiring to violate the juvenile court law and a misdemeanor charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Before the jurors took the "girl market" case at noon they were instructed by Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine that they must consider Lydia Nitto, the youthful complaining witness, as an accomplice in their deliberations on the felony charge.

M'INTOSH ASKS REVIEW OF CITIZENSHIP CASE

Yale Professor Who Refused To Take Arms Oath Requests Reconsideration.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, of Yale University, today asked the supreme court to reconsider its five-to-four decision denying him citizenship.

Professor MacIntosh insisted he was entitled to admission to citizenship on the same status with regard to military service as a native born.

In seeking naturalization, MacIntosh refused to take an unqualified oath to bear arms in any war of the United States. He said he would have to reserve judgment and decide after the outbreak of hostilities whether the cause of the United States was just.

The lower federal court denied him citizenship, but this order was reversed by the circuit court of appeals. The supreme court by a five-to-four decision, with Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissenting, held the professor not entitled to citizenship.

His case was linked with that of Miss Marie Bland, a Canadian nurse, who said she would not bear arms, but would be willing to serve as a war nurse. Like Professor MacIntosh, she saw service in the World War.

ENDURANCE DAVIS' EYES IN PERFECT CONDITION AFTER DRIVING 127 HOURS

C. R. (Endurance) DAVIS

Sleep-Defying Stunt Driver

June 15, 1931

Dr. J. H. Keene,
10 Marietta Street,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir:-

I am using this means of thanking you for the service rendered me during my endurance drive.

I was very much impressed with the examination that you gave me at the beginning of my drive. It was quite different from any examination that I had previously had.

This is the first endurance drive that I have ever made without having to use some form of medicine to relieve irritation caused from eye strain and glare. After the completion of my drive, I was very much gratified to find upon your careful examination that my eyes were in perfect condition. This makes me feel that your success in Atlanta is practically assured.

My chief reason for selecting you was the reputation you have in Miami, as I was very much impressed when I had occasion to go into your place there.

This letter comes to you without any solicitation whatsoever.

Yours very truly

Mrs. Ross Warns Democrats Against Prohibition Split

Woman Leader Says Break Would Turn Almost Certain Victory Into Defeat.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross told the Tennessee legislature today that the republican leaders are attempting to divide democratic forces over the question of prohibition.

The former democratic governor of Wyoming accused the republicans of "throwing up a smoke screen to hide the great economic issues upon which the next national campaign must be fought."

"These are the issues that are looming before this country," she said.

Mrs. Ross added, however, that "there is no use for the intelligent people of this country to hide behind their hands and say there is no prohibition problem." She continued:

"It is my hope that the intelligent democratic men and women will give dispassionate and careful study to the subject in all its phases, determined not to divide their forces and let slip through their fingers the victory that is within their grasp."

"We must go to the convention, see the majority opinion and crystallize the majority sentiment into a party platform, and the rest of us get behind the platform and fight with all our might to win."

"I am not so concerned that my party do the expedient thing, but that it do its duty."

Mrs. Ross attacked Hoover policies, which she blamed for the extent of the unemployment.

She credited President Hoover with "sincerity," but said he has "woefully failed in statesmanship and leadership."

"The great army of unemployed," she said, "are unlikely to forget the full dinner pail that Mr. Hoover dangled before their eyes."

BUTLER BROTHERS TO OPERATE HERE

Permanent location in Atlanta of a branch of Butler Bros., one of the world's largest wholesale mail-order concerns, was seen with announcement Wednesday of consummation of lease negotiations for a downtown location.

The four adjoining stores at 109-115 South Pryor street, to be used as sample rooms, will be remodeled and opened August 1. Operation of a warehouse here is expected before the end of the year.

The Pryor street stores were leased from M. E. Farmer, of Atlanta, and Mrs. M. W. Reid, of Miami, Bleich & Co., negotiating the transaction.

Negro Woman Slain.

Within hearing distance of the police station Lily Mae Brooks, negro, was shot to death Wednesday night in her home at 408 Decatur street by a negro said to have been Will Broughton, 36, address unknown, according to police. One shot was fired, entering her left breast and killing her instantly. Ada Thomas, of 30 Rawson street, was in the next room when the shot was fired, and is believed to have seen Broughton, but her report of the affair was so garbled that police did not consider her testimony of great value. Police have information that they believe will result in the capture of the alleged killer within a short time, they said.

CALDWELL OFFICIAL TESTIFIES AT TRIAL

Security Bonds Replaced by Industrial Stocks, Witness Tells Jurors.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 17.—(AP) Jurors trying Rogers Caldwell, financier, on trial on a charge of fraudulent breach of trust, heard testimony today that within three weeks after the defendant's investment bank agreed to pledge bonds as security in a trust agreement, these obligations had been replaced by industrial stocks.

The witness was E. B. Smith, 36-year-old trust officer of Caldwell & Company, the defendant's $30,000,000 investment house that collapsed last fall. His testimony related to a trust agreement with Hardeman county.

Smith told of the purchase by Caldwell & Company of a $200,000 road bond issue from the county. The contract, he said, provided that the proceeds be left on deposit with the purchaser but that the purchaser in turn pledge municipal bonds to a trustee to secure the deposit.

Assistant District Attorney-General Harry Nichol brought out that the contract was entered into March 4, 1930, and that on the next day a part of the original collateral was transferred back to Caldwell & Company and other municipal bonds substituted. Such substitutions, Smith said, were agreed to in the contract provided the substituted collateral consisted only of municipal bonds.

Theater Is Burglarized Near Police Station

Across the street from the police station the Dixie theater was robbed of several pieces of equipment from the projection machine Tuesday night by a burglar who apparently entered the second story window by climbing the telephone pole in front of the establishment, according to reports to the police.

The theater is located at 190 Decatur street, on the corner of Butler street.

WOMAN IS DEAD OF POISON DOSE

Mrs. J. L. Wofford, 29, of 1017 Hampton street, died at Grady hospital Wednesday night from a dose of poison said to have been self administered. Her husband told Patrolman Joe Wiley, stationed at the hospital, that she had been in ill health for a long time. She leaves two children, Maxine and Hazel Lucile Wofford; parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins; three sisters, Mrs. J. Wyane, Mrs. Doyal Mayfield and Miss Florence Lundeen Robbins; and a brother, O. C. Robbins. J. Austin Dillon & Co. will announce funeral arrangements when completed.

TRAIN VICTIM STILL FIGHTING FOR LIFE

A courageous battle for life is being waged at the Atlanta hospital by Wright Ridings, 11-year-old caddy at Piedmont park, whose left arm and left leg were severed by the wheels of a freight train Tuesday. He was said to be resting comfortably Wednesday night. The boy, attempting to swing a freight train on the Southern belt line, slipped and was thrown beneath the wheels. He is the son of Mrs. C. E. Ridings, widow, of 396 Linden avenue.

WITNESS IDENTIFIES YOUTH AS MURDERER

Officer Asserts He Saw North Carolinian Slay Virginia Dry Agent.

BOYDTON, Va., June 17.—(AP)—The prosecution at 4 o'clock this afternoon rested its case against Garland Smith, North Carolina youth on trial for the murder of Bernard Puryear, prohibition officer.

The final witness to testify for the state was J. T. Chaney, prohibition officer, who asserted he saw Smith fire the shots that killed Puryear and Mack Tuck, deputy sheriff.

In opening its case the defense sought immediately to impeach the testimony of Chaney by presentation of witnesses who said that several days after the fatal shooting Chaney said he could not recognize the killer and did not know whether it was a man or a woman.

On direct examination Chaney said he saw Garland Smith's face when the first two shots were fired and then saw him drop to the ground, apparently to reload his gun. He next saw him running from the ditch.

BATTLE HILL HEAD EXPLAINS TAG DAY

The tag day authorized by council to be held Saturday is for the erection of a ward for colored children at Battle Hill sanatorium, according to Dr. J. H. Bradford, of that institution. It is in no way a move of the sanatorium itself, he said, and, although a good thing, should not be construed as a move on the part of the authorities of the Battle Hill hospital.

DETECTIVE WOUNDED, NEGRO SLAIN IN BATTLE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 17.—(AP) George W. Day, 29, a night sergeant for a private detective agency, was shot through the mouth and leg and a negro who gave his name as Will Johnson was fatally wounded early today in a gun battle which followed the halting of the negro by Day and another agency operative. The negro carrying a sack opened fire, the officers said, wounding Day, and in a running battle with Day's partner was fatally shot. Six chickens, a shotgun and a crow bar were listed as articles found in the sack.

Blare of Radio Leads To Finding of Body

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—The blare of music from a radio at 5 o'clock this morning led to the discovery of the body of Joseph Marino, 45, in the kitchen of his Queens home.

Neighbors who had been awakened by the music found that the man, who was involved in pending court litigation, had been shot five times while sitting beside the radio. There were indications two persons had eaten a meal with him just before he was killed.

Roskuppe mountain, was rescued today with another young man who had been climbing with him when both fell.

MOTORSHIP BERMUDA DESTROYED BY FIRE

Passengers Will Be Returned to New York Next Week on Leased Boat.

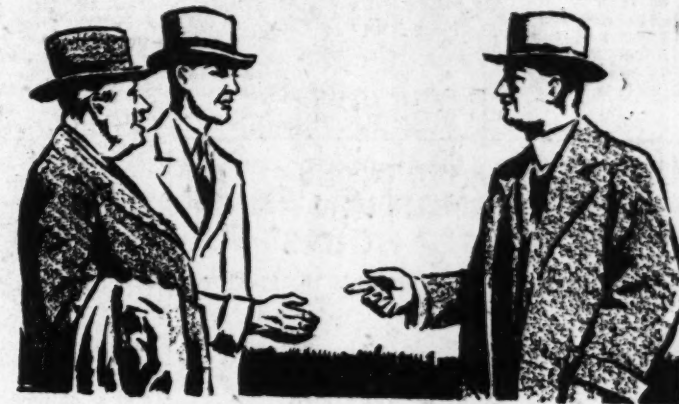

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 17.—(AP)—The motor ship Bermuda, operated by the Furness-Bermuda line between here and New York, sank at her pier today with her bridge and superstructure burned away and her stern resting on the bottom.

At about 2:30 a. m. fire broke out in an elevator shaft aft and in half an hour the flames had spread forward. By 3:30 three decks were ablaze and the superstructure was destroyed.

Four men were badly burned and taken to a hospital, but there was no loss of life and no passengers were aboard.

Nearly all the luggage which had been put aboard in anticipation of this morning's sailing was saved and the stranded passengers are being accommodated at a hotel owned by the steamship line. The passengers had been returned next week to New York on the Veendam, leased by the Furness-Bermuda line from the Holland-American line.

Who Will Be His Friends?

"An Electric Refrigerator is a wise investment"

...say thousands of thrifty women. Its convenience, comfort and ease of operation are decided daily advantages.

"GOOD food saved through adequate refrigeration is money made," is a motto that should be hung in every woman's kitchen.

"Left-overs" in fact, are frequently even better liked by men than the original food from which they are prepared.

Electric Refrigeration is an excellent way to keep foods fresh and wholesome for serving in these saving ways. Ask any thrifty woman who owns an Electric Refrigerator.

She'll tell you about new delicious frozen salads and desserts that an Electric Refrigerator helps her to make with delightful ease.

She'll refer with joy to the great convenience of an ample supply of ice cubes.

She'll say that milk, cream, butter, meats and vegetables are kept wholesome and fresh for days—that celery and lettuce stay crisp and delicious.

She will tell you she knows that in temperature below fifty degrees lies safety for her family, and that Electric Refrigeration assures that protection.

Small first payment—easy terms

A small first payment will buy an Electric Refrigerator for your home. Then the balance may be paid on easy terms. There's no need, therefore, to delay the making of this wise investment.

Wherever Electric Refrigerators are sold a complete demonstration will be given gladly, with no obligation on your part. Get the demonstration now, and satisfy yourself.

SERVICE OF MILLER LAUDED BY CARSWELL

Copy of a letter written Monday by Secretary of State George H. Carswell to Dr. Royall J. Miller, former head of the mail order division of the secretary's office, was made public Wednesday. Miller was notified Saturday night that his services would not be required after Carswell's term ends and John B. Wilson becomes secretary of state.

"I hereby express to you my thanks for the loyal and efficient service rendered in the office of the secretary of state during the three years of my term of office. I can truthfully say that you were honest, capable and efficient and with millions of dollars going through your hands, I always felt satisfied that the same was honestly and efficiently handled. I take pleasure in recommending you to any one as a gentleman who is upright, capable and painstaking."

Youths Pay $25 Each For Pack of Cigarets

One hundred dollars and costs was the price paid by four men in police court Wednesday afternoon for three packages of cigarettes. Recorder John L. Cone exacted fines of $25 each from the four men, on evidence that they had ordered the cigarettes from a curb-service stand operated by Tendric Nathan, at 607
Pulliam street, and had driven off without paying.

The men are C. T. Moore, 23, of 455 Simpson street; Bass Thrallkill, 33, of 700 Humphries street;
Ralph Coker, 24, of 557 Fair street, and G. O. Holcomb, 26, of 812 Beryl street.

Patrolmen E. S. Acree and M. T.
Maddox, operators of a radio-equi-ped police car, picked up the alarm from headquarters at 9:20 o'clock Tuesday night and captured the men 15 minutes later.

STERCHI OFFICIALS RETURN FROM MART

Early American and French provincial styles of furniture are more popular than ever, according to displays at the fashion shows, says W.
M. Hicks, vice president of Sterchi Bro's Stores, Inc., who has just returned from Chicago and other points of interest where he and C. C. Rutherford, president of the company, visited the world's largest furniture marts.

"Georgian styles are enjoying wide acceptance," Mr. Hicks says. "Adaptations and reproductions of the Hoppelwhite, Sheraton, Chippendale and Adam designs are being featured.
Tudor and Jacobean designs are particularly well represented."

"Walnut has always been popular and shows no sign of decreasing. An original walnut which has an antique effect is creating much interest at the style shows, darker, richer finishes being used. Colonial and other styles which formerly have been brought out only in maple and mahogany are now being made in walnut. Maple is continuing to be used extensively and is decidedly the outstanding choice of woods this season."

"Many of the various furniture designs are being shown in oak in new and unusual finishes. Dull, antique, grayed finishes are decidedly in vogue. Ornamental designs are smaller, harmonizing with the elegance and simplicity of the new styles. Venues, overlays and inlays are made of rich, rare woods.
"Fabrics, like the woods, are smartest in antique effects. Tapestries and mohairs are the most widely used upholstery materials in the moderately priced furnishings, while exclusive designs of damask, brocatelle, hand-blocked linen and more expensive silk fabrics are being used on higher-priced furniture."

In discussing these style show displays Mr. Hicks says that they are more interesting than ever this season and he was very fortunate in taking large commitments for the Sterchi stores in his territory from some of the largest factories represented at the furniture marts. Increased buying is anticipated as furniture prices are lower than in 20 years.

THREE MEXICANS DOOMED TO DIE

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 17.—(AP)—Governor Ross S. Sterling, of Texas, said today he would take no action toward commuting the death sentences of three Mexicans unless he received new information before the scheduled time of their execution in the electric chair early Friday.

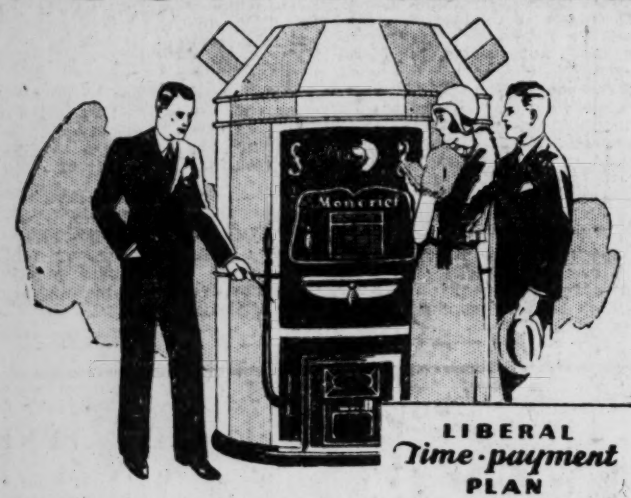

The Mexicans are convicted slayers. Ofilio Herrera is an American citizen; Nicandro Munoz and Victor Rodriguez are American aliens, subject to deportation.

Ship's Doctor of Franconia En Route to New York With Girl's Letter.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—The Evening Post today said Dr. G. James Carr, ship's doctor of the Franconia, is on his way back to New York with a letter which Starr Faithfull wrote after the liner sailed May 29, in which she said "By the time you read these words I shall be dead."

The girl was in a desperate mood, the paper says, when she penned the letter to the physician, who was her confidant. "She was bewildered and overwhelmed by the complications of her feverish and amazing life."

Dr. Carr, who had been on leave and was not expected to resume his transatlantic voyages until late in August, will arrive on the liner Laconia. The ship left Liverpool June 13 and is due here next Monday.

When the Nassau county authorities were informed of the letter they said it might indicate either that she was harried and intended to commit suicide or that she had been threatened and feared she would be murdered.

Dr. Carr will be questioned immediately upon his arrival, District Attorney Elvin Edwards stated. Although the letter was written after the Franconia sailed, it was stated, the girl, versed in ocean postal methods, dispatched it by a faster ship so that it awaited the physician in England. He received also then the news of her death.

Dr. Carr, it has been explained, was the only person who seemed to exert a good influence upon the girl. The episode of the sailing of the Franconia, when Starr was put ashore by a tug, was described as a poignant impulse of Starr to remain under his care on the ship's voyage to England.

Starr had not enough money for her fare and was overcome by her need to escape from New York, the letter indicated.

Dr. Carr previously had described how she went to his cabin, where he urged her to behave sensibly. She left him before the gangplank was raised and disappeared somewhere on board. He thought she had gone ashore. Some time after the ship was towed into midstream her presence was discovered in an alleyway near the urser's office and she was put ashore.

Expressed Remorse. It already had been revealed that in her letter to Dr. Carr she had expressed remorse for the scene on the ship, saying she had taken too much liquor. When this was given out by the authorities a week ago nothing was said about the hint of death in the missive.

Dr. Carr intended to enjoy a holiday in Belgium after the Franconia was laid up for overhauling but, upon the advice of friends, altered his plans and sailed for America.

"He is anxious to give every possible aid," a friend in London is quoted by the Post as saying. "But he is advised not to tell his story until he reaches the United States. So he left Liverpool and waited three days until the Laconia sailed. He stayed at the Rhydell Sands hotel and boarded the ship at the Liverpool landing stage."

Stanley E. Faithfull, stepfather of Starr Faithfull, reported to the police tonight that his apartment on the top floor of 12 St. Luke's place had been entered by a burglar.

Faithfull said the intrusion occurred between 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, during the absence of the family.

He said the intruder had entered the apartment by means of a movable glass skylight. He would not say what, if anything, had been taken.

After about an hour's investigation at the apartment, detectives who accompanied Mr. Faithfull to his home said a complete checkup to determine if anything had been taken was "not possible under the prevailing circumstances."

Mr. Faithfull refused to say when or how he discovered that the house

Ultimate Arms Issue Solution Will Be Slow Task, Says Gibson

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17.—(AP)—Hugh Gibson, United States ambassador to Belgium, said today he was optimistic about the possibility of limiting armaments, but did not expect to see a final solution in his lifetime.

Addressing Yale alumni at a banquet after the university's 250th commencement exercises, at which he was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws, Ambassador Gibson said: "Democracy has developed slowly, has never been perfected and needs constant watching to keep it in operation. The limitation of armaments is similarly of slow growth and its childhood needs constant nursing."

"I do not expect to see a final solution of the problem of armaments in my lifetime, for it is a problem of human relations and these problems have to be attended to as long as the human beings involved are alive. The only human problems that can be definitely disposed of are those concerned with the dead."

"I do not for a minute believe that in any international conference we are going to bring about a millennium, but I do believe that the idea of the progressive limitation of armaments by international agreement has come to stay; that whatever the setbacks and discouragements, our trend will

had been entered, or why he waited so long—more than 24 hours—to make a report to the police.

be forward; that the imperfect methods of the first steps will be improved upon by relays of new men, better trained men, to deal with these great problems, and that what we have started will be carried on farther than we can now foresee—who knows, perhaps by some of my classmates of Yale '31."

WOMAN REGISTRAR OF NEW YORK DIES

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Rebecca F. Hoffman, county registrar of New York, and the highest paid woman public official in the state, died last night after a six-week illness of inflammatory rheumatism.

Mrs. Hoffman, who three times was a delegate to the democratic national convention, was elected last year to a $12,000 a year office. Mayor Walker in his campaign referred to her as "queen of the ticket."

She was the widow of Municipal Court Justice Benjamin Hoffman. She leaves three daughters and a son.

CHARLES T. ALDRICH. PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 17.—(AP)—Charles Talbot Aldrich, prominent cotton manufacturer, philanthropist and Brown University trustee, died today, aged 75 years.

OIL MEN TO LIMIT FIELD PRODUCTION

TYLER, Texas, June 17.—(AP)—A voluntary attempt by operators to stem the flow of oil from the east Texas field, which in the last few months has undermined the foundations of the petroleum price structure in the United States, will go into effect Saturday.

Under a unitization plan subscribed to at a mass meeting of operators here, each well producing prior to June 10, irrespective of acreage involved, would be permitted to yield 300 barrels daily. All wells brought in subsequent to that date would be limited to 300 barrels daily per unit of 20 acres.

ALLEGED BANDITS HELD FOR TENNESSEE RAID

DRESDEN, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Sheriff Will Dunn announced today that two men arrested in a woods near here last night had been identified by an employee of the Peoples bank here as the two men who robbed the bank yesterday of approximately $5,000.

Sheriff Dunn said the men were being questioned today. They gave their names as Dick Allen and John Wallace, he said, and told him they were from St. Louis.

Virtually all of the paper money taken from the bank was recovered with the arrest of the men, the sheriff said.

GORDON MURDER CASE JURY IS COMPLETED

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—A jury to try Harry Stein and Samuel Greenberg for the murder last February of Vivian Gordon, Broadway figure, was completed today.

A total of 158 talesmen were examined during the five days the selection of the jury was in progress. Ninety-eight were excused by the court, principally because they were opposed to capital punishment. The prosecution used 25 of its 30 peremptory challenges and the defense 22.

Ship Saves Population Of Island From Death

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—(AP)—The entire population of Palmerston island of the Cook group, in the South Seas, was saved from starvation this week by the freighter Golden Coast, which shared its food supplies with the famished natives at considerable risk to its own crew. The population is in excess of 100.

Captain E. Svedstrup, master of the Golden Coast, said his ship was passing a mile off shore from Palmerston island when a canoe filled with natives signalled frantically. The natives informed the skipper the island had been visited by a hurricane and the people were starving. Captain Svedstrup, through his telescope saw the havoc wrought on the island and although he had only the usual provisions he divided "fifty-fifty" with the natives.

UNDERSTANDING MANAGEMENT to see your children through

ITEM V

As your Trustee-To-Be
... we Promise:

If you have children, we are ready to assume as much responsibility in their upbringing as you see fit to place upon us. We will think not simply in terms of doling out income and principal—but beyond, into terms of character, good citizenship and lasting happiness. No concern of theirs will be too trivial or too great for us to share it with them, if they will share it with us.

What of the children? How will their affairs be guided until they reach maturity? What about their different temperaments and needs? Of all the promises we make as your Trustee-to-be, the one concerning our trusteeship towards your children is the most solemn.

At this time, 172 children, for whom this wise provision was made, are being put through school under the paternal eyes of C & S Trust Officers, whose human understanding, long experience and sound judgment fit them for this most vital duty.

The benefits of organized, perpetual and capable guidance can be given your children if you nominate the Citizens & Southern National Bank as Executor-Trustee of your will. We will gladly explain how flexible such an arrangement may be.

POLLARD, RICHARDSON TO SUCCEED A. E. CLIFT

Vice President, General Manager Becomes President Central of Georgia.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Election of H. D. Pollard as president of the Central of Georgia Railroad Company, to succeed the late A. E. Clift, was recommended today by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railway system and chairman of the board of directors of the Central of Georgia railroad and the Ocean Steamship Company. E. R. Richardson was named for president of the Ocean Steamship Company. Mr. Clift held both presidencies.

Mr. Pollard has been vice president and general manager of the Central of Georgia and Mr. Richardson has held the corresponding office with the steamship company.

Henry Douglas Pollard was born October 4, 1872, at Alhert, Va. He was educated at the Aberdeen Virginia Academy, took a summer course at the University of Virginia, also a night course at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Pa.

Practically all of Mr. Pollard's working career has been spent in railroad service, both in this country and in South America. In 1892 he entered the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad as a roadman. In February, 1893, he went with the Ohio Southern railway as resident engineer at Wilkeson, Ohio, where he remained until June of that year.

The period from June, 1893, until 1894 made the only break in Mr. Pollard's railroad service. During that time he was employed on the topographical survey of the City of Baltimore.

He returned to railroad service in 1894 as assistant engineer, maintenance of way, of the Philadelphia division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, which position he held until May, 1898, being stationed at Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Mr. Pollard's service with the Central of Georgia railroad began in 1898, as he came to Savannah in May of that year as transit man in the engineering department. He remained with the Central until January, 1911, holding the position of assistant engineer, resident engineer, supervisor of track, trainmaster, roadmaster and superintendent.

In 1911 Mr. Pollard went to Brazil to enter railroad service there. From February until June of 1911 he was inspector general of the Sorocabana railway at Sao Paulo, Brazil. From June, 1911, to August, 1913, he was inspector general of the Auxiliare railway at Santa Maria and Porto Alegre, Brazil.

Mr. Pollard came back to America

Railroad President

H. D. Pollard, who is to succeed A. E. Clift as president of the Central of Georgia railroad.

In 1913, re-entering the service of the Central of Georgia railway as valuation engineer, which position he held until 1915. From 1915 to February 1, 1918, he was president of the Wrightsville & Tennille railroad, one of the short-line railroads affiliated with the Central of Georgia. On February 1, 1918, he was appointed assistant general manager of the Central of Georgia at Savannah, being promoted to general manager on June 8, 1918. On March 1, 1920, he was made general superintendent and on January 16, 1924, he was appointed general manager. He was promoted to vice president and general manager on October 9, 1925, and was elected a director of the Central of Georgia railway in December of last year.

AUTO ATTACHMENT RELEASED IN MACON

MACON, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Attachment which held the automobile of F. J. Crowley, of Marine City, Mich., for claims of three women totaling $48,500 the result of an accident here Monday afternoon, were released today when a surety company furnished bond of $4,500. The automobile will be returned to its owner.

Miss Helen Cockran, Girl Scout executive; Miss Susie Griffith, executive secretary of the organized service here, and Miss Kathleen Maddux, were injured in the accident.

STATE LEGIONNAIRES PLAN LAGRANGE MEET

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Arrangements are being completed here for entertainment of the state American Legion, which meets in annual convention on July 2-3, members of the local committee have announced.

William E. Parker, Cedartown, is the Georgia division commander at the present and Mrs. Ernest Travis, Griffin, is president of the Georgia division, American Legion Auxiliary.

Newsboy in Waycross Lands 6-Pound Bass

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—John Shipes, Waycross Journal-Herald newsboy, doesn't trust a flax line to hold a six and a half-pound bass. John was fishing for perch in the Satilla river when he hooked a fighting bass. The youthful fisherman played the fish for a few minutes, pulled him into shallow water, and dived on his fishy highness.

John and two newsboy companions brought the big fish to Waycross and weighed him before a crowd of fishing enthusiasts.

SOUTH GEORGIA CROPS GOOD, SAYS MILLS LANE

Cheapest Made Since the 1890's Declares Bank President.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—"Cotton, corn, tobacco, peanut and watermelon crops in south Georgia are all in splendid condition, and the crops are the cheapest made crops since the 1890's," said Mills B. Lane, chairman of the board of the Citizens & Southern National bank, upon his return from Valdosta today. Mr. Lane had been to the Lowndes county city to celebrate his fiftieth anniversary as a banker.

"The dry, fine weather has been most beneficial," he continued. "The lack of rain has prevented grass from growing. The cotton fields are full of red and white blooms, cotton being very far advanced in the rich farming region of south Georgia. There was not a blade of grass seen in the watermelon fields, and this crop is a big one, ready for shipment next week. Tobacco is being cut and will be on the market next week also."

"The lack of rain and the cool weather instead of being harmful to the farmers, as some people feared, have made the crops the finest in quality and volume that this section of south Georgia has enjoyed in a long time. The absence of grass has been a factor in lowering the cost to the farmers while the crops were growing. The rain came just at the right time."

L. B. HARRELL TO HEAD BANK IN WAYCROSS

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 17.—L. B. Harrell has been elected president of the Commercial bank of Waycross, succeeding the late K. F. Rymer, it is announced today by the board of directors.

Mr. Harrell is president of the Waycross Coca-Cola Company, president of the Waycross Commercial Hotel Company, president of the Enterprise Manufacturing Company, charter member and vice president of the Waycross Rotary Club, a member of the sinking fund commission of Waycross, and one of the largest property owners in this section of the state. He has been connected with the Commercial bank for the past 31 years as director and for the past six years as vice president.

J. M. Norman, who has been cashier of the bank ever since its organization in 1918, and who has been a member of the board of directors since 1919, was elected active vice president and cashier.

K. S. Varn, who is one of the largest and most successful naval stores operators in Georgia, was elected vice president.

Allen R. Spence, of the Waycross bar, who has served as solicitor-general of the Waycross superior court circuit, and who declined appointment as superior court judge to remain solicitor-general, was elected a member of the board of directors to fill an existing vacancy. The members of the board of directors are L. B. Harrell, K. S. Varn, Allen R. Spence, T. J. Darling, J. T. Hopkins, A. R. Hood and J. M. Norman.

ARSON IS SUSPECTED IN FIRE AT MACON

MACON, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—State Fire Marshal Albert Sharps engaged here in the trial of Melissa Clay, negro, on an arson charge, said he would begin an investigation of the burning of a residence at 113 American boulevard as soon as the trial has been completed. The American boulevard residence was burned early Tuesday morning. W. P. Parks and Homer H. Carl discovered the house on fire as they were passing the scene early Tuesday morning. They said the odor of kerosene was strong when they entered the house.

Legislator Champions Maternal Heirs in State Inheritance Law

MACON, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Changes in Georgia's inheritance law, by the rules of which an estate is divided in the absence of a will, will be proposed at the coming session of the general assembly by J. Douglas Carlisle, Bibb county legislator-elect, it was said today.

The bill, already prepared by Mr. Carlisle, provides for the equal inheritance of paternal and maternal half blood, where there are no primary heirs. Under the present rules of inheritance, Mr. Carlisle pointed out, the paternal half blood shares equally with brothers and sisters in the distribution of an estate, but maternal half blood gets no part of the estate.

The wife and children are the first to share in the estate where there is no will. They are considered primary heirs. Where there are no primary heirs the estate is divided among the secondary heirs.

Mr. Carlisle's bill would give the father, brothers and sisters two shares in the estate and to the maternal and paternal half blood one share each.

It was drawn on the theory that the maternal half blood is as much related to the deceased as is the paternal half blood. The Bibb legislator said he considers the present rules of distribution unfair, hence his bill to change them. He said he does not anticipate any opposition.

Mr. Carlisle has prepared three other bills which he said he expects to introduce. Two of them deal with carrier regulations. They are the chauffeurs and operators license bill, and the safety responsibility bill. Both were announced several days ago. They are based on uniform laws in several states.

Another bill, a local one, will ask the state to equip the court library here with complete sets of Georgia reports, appeal reports and acts of the legislature.

Mr. Carlisle will leave Macon next Tuesday to be present at the opening of the session Wednesday, he said.

29TH SUMMER SCHOOL TO OPEN AT GEORGIA

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—The University of Georgia will open its twenty-ninth summer school here Monday, June 22. The school will embrace the university proper, the State College of Agriculture, and the State Teachers' College.

In connection with the summer school, the Women's Club institute will be held Wednesday, July 1. Several lectures will be given under auspices of the institute of public affairs during the session. The Southern Music Teachers' Institute will begin Wednesday, July 22.

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING AT OCILLA

OCILLA, Ga., June 17.—Ocilla will be the scene of the annual meeting of the Valdosta district conference of the Methodist church on Thursday and Friday of this week. Rev. J. H. House is presiding elder.

Among prominent visiting ministers who will speak will be Dr. Walter Anthony, of Mulberry church, Macon; Rev. J. M. Outler, of Waycross First church, and Dr. C. M. Anderson, new president of Wesleyan Female College, Macon.

ATLANTAN IS PLAINTIFF IN SUIT FOR $100,000

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—One of the largest civil cases ever to be tried in Glynn superior court was started this morning, with indications that it would not be completed before Friday. It is the case of T. R. Sawtell, well-known Atlantan, vs. C. W. Lane, Brunswick capitalist, in which is involved upwards of $100,000. The case is a suit on note and is a result of the sale a few years ago by Mr. Sawtell to Mr. Lane of the old pieric acid plant site, located several miles from the city.

Mr. Sawtell, who had purchased the site for $35,000, sold it to Mr. Lane for $130,000. After making the first payment and one or two others, totaling approximately $40,000, it is alleged in the petition, Mr. Lane refused to pay other notes and after a limited time the suit was brought for the balance due, $90,000, besides interest and cost. In the original petition the suit was also asked to set aside a deed executed by Mr. Lane transferring his other property in Glynn county to trustees, the petition claiming that the transfer was for fraudulent purposes, and this question is also involved in the case now on trial.

Attorneys for the plaintiff claim the property transfer was made to avoid it being levied upon in the event the court brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, as it is realized that the pieric acid plant will not now bring anything like $90,000.

On the other hand, the defendant in his answer claims he was sold the property in question under misrepresentations, which constituted fraud,

Sheriff Levies on Bees, Candidate for Medal

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 17.—Sheriff J. L. Spivey and a group of his deputies today made a most unusual levy—taking possession of 1,200 pounds of honey in the bee hives and approximately 20,000,000 bees, stingers and all," according to Sheriff Spivey's official estimate of bees by the wholesale.

The sheriff, after making the levy, said he would bring the hives to the city and store them as soon as possible, and arrange for the sale. He wants to move the hives when he finds as many bees away from home as possible.

After the removal is made, friends of the sheriff expect to apply for the 1931 award of the medal for the most hazardous undertaking performed by an officer in the state.

FLAMES GUT BUSINESS BLOCK IN LOGANVILLE

LOGANVILLE, Ga., June 17.—Damage estimated at $40,000 was caused by fire here last night, said to have originated in the hardware and furniture store of Bob Moore. The flames quickly spread over that business section of Main street, laying waste to Henderson's garage, including three automobiles, tools and equipment; W. T. Brooks & Son, general merchandise; the Rock warehouse, containing a truck and tractor and equipment belonging to the state highway department; Brooks & Son warehouse, and the Loganville Mercantile Company warehouse and some smaller buildings. The loss is said to have been only partially insured.

that many claims for it were made which proved to be false, and it is claimed in the answer that the $40,000 already paid is more than the property is worth.

Rebuilding Begun. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 17.—Preliminary work is under way for rebuilding the planing mill plant destroyed by fire Sunday morning at the plant of the J. N. Bray Lumber Company.

GEORGIAN IS AWARDED DANFORTH FOUNDATION

George T. Oakley Is Second To Win Honor at Agriculture College.

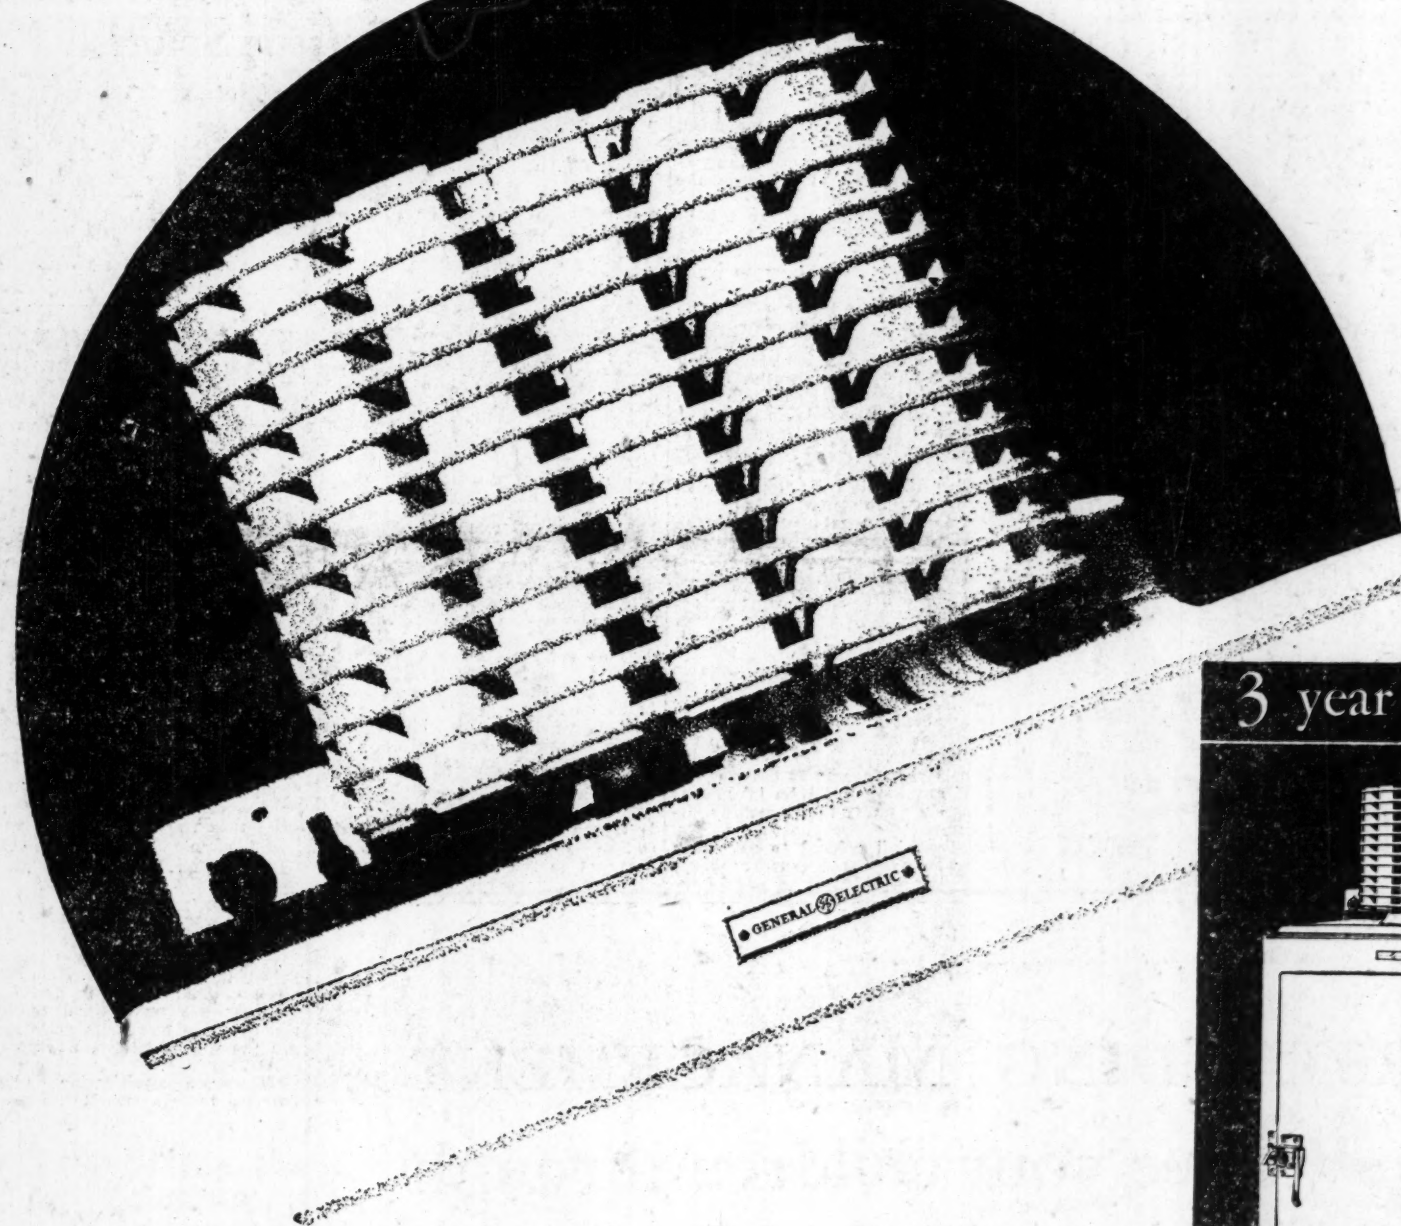

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—The Danforth Foundation Fellowship for 1931 has been awarded to George T. Oakley, a member of the junior class of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, specializing in animal husbandry. The fellowship is for eight weeks from July 15 to September 7. Mr. Oakley will study problems in manufacturing, sales, promotion, grain exchanges, stock yards, research laboratories, and farm management. The course will include all phases of the commercial feed business. Most of the studies will be carried on in the Purina mills and commercial enterprises in the vicinity of St. Louis. At the conclusion of these studies Mr. Oakley will go to the Great Lakes for a leadership camp of two weeks.

Each year the Danforth foundation provides 30 summer fellowships for outstanding seniors in the 30 leading colleges of America. This is the second time that an award of one of these fellowships has come to a student in the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

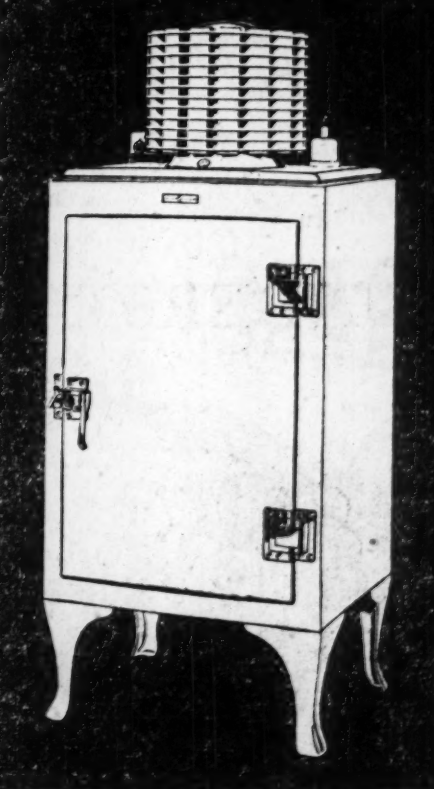

Rebuilding Begun. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 17.—Preliminary work is under way for rebuilding the planing mill plant destroyed by fire Sunday morning at the plant of the J. N. Bray Lumber Company.

ATTORNEYS DEFENDED BY BAR OF ELBERTON

Attack by Sutherland on Downer's Counsel Is Condemned.

ELBERTON, Ga., June 17.—Declaring that, in their judgment, "every step justified by the law and ethics of the legal profession was taken and observed before, during process of and after the trial" of John Downer, negro, convicted of an assault on a white woman and sentenced to death by the Elberton superior court, the Elberton Bar Association has adopted resolutions defending the conduct of attorneys appointed to defend the negro.

The resolutions declare that one of the three defense attorneys in the case has been adversely criticized, and warmly defend him and his confederates in the case. The criticism resented is attributed to W. A. Sutherland, of Atlanta, attorney now associated with the negro's defense, and the defense lawyer mentioned is Howard B. Payne, of the Elberton bar.

The negro originally was sentenced to be electrocuted last Monday, but won a delay when attorneys appealed for a writ of habeas corpus in the United States district court in Macon. The writ was refused by Judge Blanton Deaver, but an appeal to the United States court of appeals was granted, thus automatically staying the execution.

The resolutions adopted by the Elberton Bar Association read, in part, as follows:

"Whereas, Howard B. Payne was only one of the three capable and experienced attorneys appointed to defend this negro, there being associated with him in this trial the Hon. Z. B. Rogers, dean of the Elberton bar and a lawyer of wide and varied experience, as well as Charles Emory Smith, a recent addition to the Elberton bar, but a lawyer of many years experience and unquestioned ability. All of these gentlemen are of the highest type, utterly unafraid to do their duty under any circumstances, and have the entire confidence of the members of this association and of every one acquainted with them.

"Whereas, the evidence adduced on the trial of this case was not only sufficient to justify the verdict rendered, but was conclusive of guilt, and

"Whereas, in our judgment every step justified by the law and the ethics of the legal profession was taken and observed before, during process of and after the trial of this case.

"Be it resolved by the Elberton Bar Association that the attack made upon Howard B. Payne by the said W. A. Sutherland be, and it is hereby condemned as entirely untrue, without the least justification or foundation of fact, and is more of a slander than just criticism."

Berry Pickers Mourn Idle Canning Plant

AMERICUS, Ga., June 17.—With a large blackberry crop ripening and hundreds of negroes anxious to begin picking it is announced that in all probability the Americus canning plant of Roberts Brothers, Baltimore, Md., will not be operated this season.

Last season blackberries were canned for the first time in commercial quantities and a large sum was distributed among farmers and workers. Eastern Brothers canneries at Andersonville, near here, has already begun operation and is giving employment to a number of workers as well as buying quantities of products for canning.

LEGIONNAIRES DISCUSS SOLDIER RECREATION

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 17.—(P)—American Legion and auxiliary officers from five southeastern states conferred here today on methods of providing recreation for soldiers in government hospitals.

Augusta legionnaires submitted a report at the opening of the two-day conference expressing the opinion that the United States veterans' bureau has the authority to provide the recreation for hospitals which the American Red Cross is to abandon July 1 because of lack of funds.

Legion officials said if the veterans' bureau will not provide the necessary funds the Legion hopes to work out ways and means of providing them.

Out-of-town delegates registered at the conference here included:

Ralph E. Sharp and Howard Rowton, department of Florida, Palatka; Mrs. C. E. James, state president of the Florida auxiliary, Fort Pierce; Mrs. Beverly J. Miller, of the North Carolina auxiliary; S. C. Groschel, of the Columbia (S. C.) office of the veterans' bureau.

Robert E. Wilson, of Anderson, S. C.; John M. Sloan Jr., regional director of the veterans' bureau at Atlanta; R. L. Forbes, national rehabilitation officer of the Legion, New Orleans; Colonel Dallas Smith, representative of Administrator Frank T. Hines, of the veterans' bureau, from Birmingham, Ala.

1 KILLED, 2 INJURED IN COLBERT STORM

COLBERT, Ga., June 17.—One person was killed and two injured as the result of an electrical storm here Tuesday.

Lorene Drake, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drake, was killed and her two companions, whose names were not obtained, were rendered unconscious when struck by lightning.

The girls were out blackberry picking, when a severe storm arose. Unable to gain access to shelter, the girls had tried to brave the storm. They were found an hour after the storm abated, by friends, who could not revive Lorene. The girls struck senseless were reported convalescing Wednesday.

UNIVERSITY ACCEPTS OFFER OF LUCY COBB

Proffered Lease of Famous Institution as Dormitory Approved by Trustees.

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—(P)—Lucy Cobb Institute, well known as a school for girls for more than half a century, went out of operation for at least three years as trustees of the University of Georgia today accepted an offer to lease the property for that period.

The trustees of the university announced that the dormitory of the institute would be utilized for the freshman class of girls of the university beginning next September. They did not announce plans for using the rest of the property although they said the lease included the entire school structures.

Struck by Auto.

AMERICUS, Ga., June 7.—Mrs. Ruth Belthius, an operator employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Company, was struck by an automobile near the intersection of Jackson and West Church streets here last night and painfully injured. The car which struck her was driven by Dr. A. F. Ware, a member of the faculty of Americus Normal College, and the accident was said to have been unavoidable.

Grains in Elbert.

BOWMAN, Ga., June 17.—The best oat and wheat crop in this county since 1926 is being rapidly harvested. Machines from the old-time cradle to modern reapers are gathering grain. Threshing machines can be heard from many directions. Owing to a late, cold spring and practically no rainfall the cotton outlook is poor with more or less irregular stands and does not give promise of a very substantial yield.

Lightning Hits Barn.

HAHIRA, Ga., June 17.—Lightning struck the barn of George Staley, a farmer, about three miles west of here, during a thundershower today.

Hancock Peaches.

SPARTA, Ga., June 17.—Growers in Hancock county are making plans for shipping 40 cars of peaches this season and probably more if rains come in time to make the fruit larger. The majority of the peaches to be shipped will be Carmen, Georgia Belle and Elbertas.

Articles on Quail Presented by Expert

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 17.—Herbert L. Stoddard, who spent several years in this region studying the quail, their habits, and enemies, is presenting a series of articles on the subject, sponsored by the Georgia game and fish department. In his investigations here of the Bob Whites, he was backed up and aided by the federal government. Mr. Stoddard learned that most of the preferred food of quail consists of the seed of certain weeds and grasses, and that the birds do no damage to crops of agriculture. In fact, he stated, the quail are allies of the farmer, for they destroy many insects that are enemies of crops of various sorts.

in Thomas county. It seems assured that the first carload of the 1931 crop here will move before the end of the present week. Colquitt county has the record for shipment of the first carload from this section this year. A car moved from Moultrie on Tuesday. The rains that fell here last Sunday and Monday game just in time to prevent serious damage to the melon crop.

HAIL DESTROYS CROPS IN HANCOCK COUNTY

SPARTA, Ga., June 17.—Farmers in the Archerton and Jewell communities of this county suffered considerable loss from hail on Sunday and will be forced to plow up their cotton and corn and plant cow peas or some other crop. The vegetation in some areas was badly beaten and it is too late in the season for it to come out and make a crop.

COOLIDGE CLARIFIES WHITE HOUSE STAND

Utterances at Marion Taken as Indication He Will Play Minor Role.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Most of the speculation heretofore revolving around the part former President Coolidge will play in the 1932 republican national convention and the subsequent presidential campaign was held to be at an end today in the light of certain utterances he made yesterday at the dedication of the Harding memorial at Marion, Ohio.

In introducing President Hoover at the dedication, Mr. Coolidge praised the chief executive for his "patience, courage and ability" and called upon the American people to support him in these days of economic trials and tariff tribulations.

The adjectives, of course, are not the former president's, but he did seem to remove all doubt of his support of Mr. Hoover for renomination by using the following language:

"The people have known," he said, "that whatever could be done for their benefit and relief President Hoover would do."

In the mind of most observers here, this tends to definitely eliminate all consideration of the oft-repeated suggestion that Mr. Coolidge may be found in a receptive mood for accepting the nomination, should it develop that anti-Hoover forces within the party are sufficiently powerful to draft him next year.

Due to the character of the speeches delivered on his present middle western tour, Mr. Hoover, when he returns to Washington tomorrow, will appear in the role of a full-fledged candidate for renomination and reelection. He will return, moreover, in the role of one who has given definite shape and form to the platform on which he will stand.

The president has made it clear that he will seek to have the campaign confined to economic issues, with the tariff upheld against the concerted attack of the democrats.

Democrats, on the other hand, have accepted his challenge and are prepared to make the tariff an outstanding subject of consideration by the American electorate.

Prohibition, of course, will be an issue of no small proportions. For the moment it is impossible to say just what figure it will cut in the campaign, but it is certain that the democrats will espouse the liberal side. Mr. Hoover already has sufficiently indicated that he will accept the dry side of the question. There would be nothing for him to gain by liberalizing his attitude since the democrats have already gotten the jump here. For the moment it is generally conceded that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, an advocate of prohibition reform, will be the democratic nominee.

Bids Received.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The navy department today received bids ranging from $1,000,420 to $2,128,280 for the main propelling machinery for the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho. The low bidder was not announced.

Air Officials Take Quick Action To Discipline Offending Aviators

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The commerce department today moved rapidly to ascertain whether any laws or regulations were violated by aviators who disturbed the dedication of the Harding memorial at Marion, Ohio, yesterday, causing President Hoover to demand that they be disciplined.

Although without official advice, Director Budwig, of the air regulation division, directed airway officials of the Detroit district to act without delay. He was advised that an inquiry had been started immediately after the occurrence yesterday.

Department regulations provide that in flying over a crowd airplanes must stay at least 1,000 feet in the air.

If this height was maintained, Budwig said, nothing can be done. Under the regulations, if a plane is flown less than 1,000 feet the aviator's license may be revoked for an indefinite period and he may be heavily fined.

PLANE ORDERED GROUNDED—

PENDING INVESTIGATION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 17.—(AP) Secretary Lamont today telephoned the aviation division of the commerce department and ordered the three pilots who flew over the Harding Memorial during the dedication exercises yesterday grounded until an investigation could be made.

The commerce secretary's action was taken after President Hoover called on him to make an example of the three.

President Hoover asked Mr. Lamont to proceed against the men under existing law. He said if those laws did not provide for the elimination of such interruptions he would recommend legislation to the next congress.

DETROIT NEWS AUTOGRAPH—FLEW NEAR MEMORIAL
DETROIT, June 17.—(AP)—The Detroit News today said that its autograph plane was one of the planes at the dedication of the Harding tomb in Marion, Ohio, yesterday which caused a protest from President Hoover.

The News article said:
"The Detroit News autograph was one of the planes at the Harding tomb during the dedication exercises yesterday. It carried William A. Kuenzel, photographer, who made several pictures of the crowd with a long range camera, but it did not fly directly over the crowd. The Harding tomb is surrounded by open country which affords gliding space for landing for any plane which might be forced to descend."

One pretentious suggestion, which stopped far short of a comprehensive "plan" in the Russian sense, proposed to inaugurate a nation-wide movement for the building of residences. This suggestion coincided with a conviction held in important quarters, that the best and most effective beginning of a new cycle of business activity would be an increase in the building of homes. Residence construction not only gives employment to a large number of wide variety of workers. In addition, a new home becomes, so to speak, a new unit of civilization and a new cell of industry. Into a new home come extensions of wires and pipes bearing electricity, gas and water, as well as furniture, an automobile, and every variety of household goods. In short, a period of new residence building constitutes an addition to the body of society similar to the new ring of yearly growth in the structure of a tree.

Money Obstacle.
In attempting to put this residence building suggestion into effect, an obstacle developed in the supply of money to loan on mortgages. There is an abundance of money. Many of the institutions possessing the money, however, have already on their hands mortgages or bonds on existing buildings built at pre-depression prices. They are reluctant to introduce into the situation a large number of new structures built at lower, post-depression costs. Perhaps this is one way of saying that the existing supply of houses is in excess of the demand. Nevertheless, there is so much value and appeal in the idea of accelerated home building that it may come to fruit.

To describe this one modest, limited, and practicable suggestion may mislead about the nature of the mass of "plans" that have been put forward from scores of sources. These ambitious, comprehensive "plans," speaking generally, contemplate a taking control of all the industry and all the labor in the country, and allocating labor and supplies according to priorities laid out in advance, much as was done in war times. While this mechanism is common to all the comparative "plans" the element of power and authority in them falls into two quite different categories. One group would have the government do it as the Russian "plan" operates and much as our own industry's war industries board functioned during the war. The objection to that is realized by asking whether the United States is willing, during peace-time, to take so long a step into government autocracy. President Hoover's attitude, it is obvious from his speech, is a rather emphatic "no."

Trust Obstacles.
The other group of "plans" contemplates that the heads of the country's industries shall come together with labor and agree among themselves upon an allocation and priorities of supplies and labor. The difficulty about that is realized by asking if America is ready to abandon its anti-trust laws and its anti-monopoly philosophy.

President Hoover makes it clear that he rejects both government autocracy and business super-power. For all such "plans" in this sense he substitutes an "American ideal" which is merely the continuation of the traditional American philosophy and practice. It rests on the assumption that the aggregate individual planning of 120,000,000 people, their aggregate energy and initiative and resourcefulness will pull America forward faster and more surely than any "super-plan" or super-power, governmental or industrial. President Hoover's own plan, in short, is to "just keep on giving the American people a chance."

Nevertheless, the proposers of nationwide "plans" in the Russian sense have all the ardor of inventors and the persistence of zealots. The country seems destined to see immediately a deluge of "plans" in books, magazines and newspapers. When congress assembles there will be a similar deluge in that body. "Plans" some in imitation of Russia, others in counter-defense against Russia, are going to fill much of the country's eyes and ears.

ALABAMAN WOUNDED
IN PISTOL BATTLE
HEFLIN, Ala., June 17.—(AP)—Herman Lovorn, 23, was shot and probably fatally wounded today in a gun battle with Cleburne county officers, headed by Sheriff Will Owen, near Macedonia, Ala.

More than 50 shots were said to have been exchanged when Sheriff Owen and two deputies surprised Lovorn, his brother and a third man at a still shortly before noon.

Lovorn was taken to a hospital at Anniston, Ala., critically wounded in the head and his companions were placed in jail here.

DROUTH STILL HOLDS IN SOME DIXIE AREAS

Northwest Also Remains in Grip of Rainless Heat.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Beneficial rains have fallen recently in Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee and Georgia, but other sections of the south are still in need of moisture. The weather bureau said today in its weekly report.

A half-inch of rain fell in Washington and Oregon last night, but failed to sweep over the mountains into the seriously affected drouth states.

The bureau said recent rains have proved helpful in the eastern and southern portions of the spring wheat belt, but in western North Dakota and eastern Montana the drouth "continued unabated and deterioration of spring wheat was unchecked."

ONE DEATH TRACED TO FLORIDA DROUTH
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 17.—(AP)—One death was attributed by authorities today to drouth in sections of the upper Everglades.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Lawrence reported water was so scarce in the area between Belle Glade and South Bay that white persons are buying drinking water in bottles while negroes are digging holes to get meager supplies.

H. Ruffin, aged negro, went to one of the water holes and fell in head first. The hole was so narrow he could not get out. His body was found yesterday.

Gift Reported.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—A $2,000 contribution from R. M. Burch, of New York on June 6, was reported today to the clerk of the house by the democratic senatorial campaign committee.

Expenditures from January 3 to June 8, all for routine items, totaled $1,281.

Fair Weather Today, Forecaster Says

Fair weather today will be accompanied by slightly higher temperatures, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, predicted Wednesday. The weatherman expects additional rain later in the week.

Today's temperatures probably will range from 70 to 93, as compared with 68 to 89 degrees Wednesday, Mr. von Herrmann said. Atlanta's rainfall this month totals 37 of an inch, little enough in view of the long dry period, but there is a possibility of boosting the total during the latter part of the week, he said.

Savannah Wednesday reported an inch rainfall for Tuesday, and New Orleans reported 22 of an inch. Thomsville reported 98 of an inch. Jacksonville 1.62 and Charleston .10.

Storm Kills Three.
HAGEN, Westphalia, Germany, June 17.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 40 injured when a storm of tornado proportions struck between Herscheid and Hohenhausen this evening. Property damage was estimated at $250,000.

Have you tried CAMELS?

The steady increase in the sales of Camel cigarettes proves one fact beyond a doubt.

If we can persuade you to switch to Camels for just one day, the odds are very great that you will adopt these cigarettes as your personal brand.

So great is the contrast between the delights of perfectly conditioned Camels fresh from the protection of the new Humidor Pack and the harsh, hot smoke from stale dried-out cigarettes, that your decision will be immediate.

The quality is there in the first place, for Camels are a blend of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos.

In factory-prime condition, with their rare flavor and their natural moisture still intact, they are a joy to the smoker.

Now this flavor is air-sealed in by an outer wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane, so that no matter where you buy Camels, in any land, in any climate, you are always certain to get fresh cigarettes in factory-prime condition.

And there are other advantages as well. For the Humidor Pack also protects the cigarettes within from dust and germs and weather conditions.

Start the day on Camels. See how much milder they are, how much more flavorful they are, how cool they are to your throat.

No peppery dust to irritate delicate membrane. No harsh, hot smoke from dried-out tobacco to burn the tongue or sear the throat.

Come, switch to Camels for a day, then leave them — if you can.

DODD-THOMAS WEDDING IS AFTERNOON EVENT

Ceremony Is Solemnized
At First Presbyterian

Fashionable members of Atlanta society assembled yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church on Peachtree street to witness the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Dodd, daughter of Harry Dodd, to Everett Thomas. Rev. J. Sproule Lyons, the pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives of the young couple. The church was effectively decorated in palms, ferns and baskets filled with ascension lilies and gladioli, which alternated with seven-branched candelabra holding white burning tapers. Large clusters of the ascension lilies and white gladioli tied with white ribbons marked the pews in which were seated members of the family and intimate friends.

Bridal Party.

The ushers were Sam Worley and Henry Morgan, who were followed by the groomsmen, Humphrey Wagar and John Dodd. Misses Virginia Courts and Selma Wilson, of Orlando, Fla., were the bridesmaids and Mrs. Sam Worley, the bride's sister, was the matron of honor and preceded the bride. The bridesmaids and matron of honor wore gowns alike of pink net fashioned over pink satin, which were form-fitting, and the skirts were tucked to knee length, widening to an ankle-length ruffle. The empire waistline was featured by a belt of French blue velvet ribbon, tied in a large bow at the back. They wore blue shoes of matching shade and large pink flower hair hats. Their flowers were shower bouquets of pink roses, snapdragons and delphinium.

Beautiful Bride.

Edward G. Merritt acted as best man for the bridegroom, and met the beautiful bride at the altar. She entered the church with her father, Mr. Dodd, by whom she was given in marriage. Her white satin wedding gown was modelled at the neckline and fitted to perfection her slender figure. The long, full, ankle-length skirt of satin extended above the waistline in points joining the deep yoke of priceless real lace. The sleeves were long and fashioned of lace and the skirt widened in the back to form the long satin train and her tulle veil was caught to her dark brown hair with a clip effect. The veil was embroidered in bands of tiny seed pearls, and had been worn by her father, Mrs. Sam Worley, the former Mary Dodd, at her wedding last fall. She carried a real lace handkerchief which belonged to her mother and which she carried at her marriage, and her only ornament was a string of exquisite pearls, which also belonged to her mother, the late Elizabeth Collier Dodd. The bride's flowers were a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Reception Follows.

After the ceremony, Mr. Dodd entertained at a reception at his home on Peachtree circle, and receiving with the host were the bride and bridegroom, members of the wedding party, Miss Lila Collier, aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Philip Thomas, parents of the bridegroom. Miss Emily McPhail kept the bride's book and assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mesdames Charles F. Whitner Jr., Stuart Gould, Wallace Kilgore and Miss Dorothy Collier. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left for their wedding trip to New York and Canada, and upon their return the middle of July they will reside at 2230 Peachtree road. The bride traveled in a smart blue wool crepe ensemble, with a white georgette blouse figured in various colors. Her hat was a rough straw model and her accessories were in matching shade.

Hugh Hodgson
To Give Recital.

Hugh Hodgson, assisted by Mrs. Hodgson and Miss Irene Leftwich, will appear in a recital in the Emory University auditorium this evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. This is the first of a series of weekly musical recitals to be presented by Mr. Hodgson. The program will begin promptly at 7 o'clock and will be open to the public, free of charge.

The University chorus will be organized following the recital. It is open to interested folk who may desire to join it and who are not members of the university. The chorus will be under the direction of Mr. Hodgson. A series of choruses from well-known operas will be presented in concert later in the summer.

The program, which includes works of J. Sebastian Bach, is as follows: Short explanation of polyphonic style of Bach, with illustrations from his inventions. Mr. Hodgson; Gavotte from Violin Sonata arranged for piano by Saint-Saens; Allemande, Courante, Sarabande and Gavotte from French Suite in G Major—Miss Irene Leftwich; Air for G String (from Flute Sonata); Badinerie; "Ave Maria" (arrangement of Prelude by Gounod); Mrs. Alex King; Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor arranged from organ by Tausig; Mr. Hodgson; Bist Du Bei Mir; Patron, das macht der Wind; Mrs. Hodgson; Allemande from French Suite; Prelude and Gigue from Partita; Mr. Hodgson; chorales, "Break Forth" from Christmas Oratorio, and "Beside Thy Cradle" from Christmas Oratorio; chorus.

Earth Sees Only Stellar Ghosts, Says Mount Wilson Astronomer

PASADENA, Cal., June 17.—(AP)—The ghosts of other universes were talked about today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Edwin Hubble, explorer into the vast recesses of the skies, paused in his work at the world's largest telescope at Mount Wilson to tell America's leading scientists about the things he had found.

All that is known about these roving island universes is actually the information for it merely is the seeing of them as they were hundreds of millions of years ago. It is because they are so far away that from them traveling at the speed of 186,000 miles a second, takes from 100,000,000 to 250,000,000 years to reach the earth.

These nebulae, said Dr. Hubble, average about a hundred million times as bright as the sun, but are seen only as faint points of light by the greatest of telescopes. The stellar system of some thirty thousand million stars is but one island universe, known as the Milky Way galaxy, and its spread over an area of some 660,000,000,000,000 miles. It is beyond this that the exploration work of Dr. Hubble begins.

He revealed that at some points there are great obscuring clouds of dust in the Milky Way galaxy.

"There is no evidence of a fading out of the Milky Way galaxy," said Dr. Hubble in discussing the remote sky regions. "Eliminating the obscuration along the Milky Way, it is estimated that there are billions of island universes within reach of the 100-inch Mount Wilson telescope, averaging nearly a hundred million miles in diameter and scattered at intervals of about 1,000,000 miles. One light year is six million of million miles."

He said some 20,000 of these island universes have been counted on 900 photographic plates taken at Mount Wilson.

"There is no evidence of any appreciable absorption of light beyond the limits of our own stellar system," he reported.

ion Guild, New York; Edwin C. Gruhl, vice president and general manager of the North American Company, and Joseph H. Appel, advertising manager of the New York Times. It was election day for several groups within the federation. Don U. Bridges, The News, Indianapolis, Ind., was elected president of the Newspaper Advertising Executive Association. R. S. McCarty, of the Philadelphia Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected president of the Public Utilities Advertising Association. W. T. Twomey, of Boston, is the new chairman of the Retail Dry Goods Association division of the federation.

THREE WOUNDED IN BEER BATTLE
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—Beer gangsters exchanged shots in a restaurant here early today leaving three victims, one of them probably fatally wounded.

He is Raymond Johnson, a newspaper vendor, shot in the spine and heart region, lying at the Crouse Irving hospital.

Stephen Mezzatesta, 31, shot three times in the legs was in a serious condition at the Crouse Irving hospital.

Anthony Palermo, 24, is in Syracuse Memorial hospital with a bullet wound in the right hip.

The shooting was held by Syracuse police today on orders of Assistant District Attorney William C. Martin.

FATHER AND SON HELD IN KILLING
FULTON, Miss., June 17.—(AP)—Walter Holley, 32, and his son, Delmar, 25, were held tonight on murder charges pending completion of an investigation of the fatal wounding of Thomas Holley, 53, brother of Walter, and Alvin Williams, 35, son-in-law of Thomas Holley.

MOTHER, CHILD LOST IN CANADIAN STORM
DRUMHELLER, Alberta, June 17.—(AP)—A cloudburst at the town of Wayne last night swept away a house in which a mother and her 12-year-old son were living, flooded a mine and undermined roads and filled basements.

The deluge carried away the home of James Graham. His wife and son, believed to have been in the building, were not seen again.

The nearby Excelsior mine on the hill was flooded and a section of roadway leading to the mine caved in. It was not immediately learned whether the Graham house, a small dwelling, was carried away by the rising waters of Rosebud creek or swept into the mine.

INDIAN EARTHQUAKE KILLS 15 PERSONS
PESHAWAR, India, June 17.—(AP)—Fifteen persons were killed and 50 houses destroyed today by an earthquake in the district of Peshawar, Afghanistan, 60 miles north of Kabul. Many buildings were damaged by the disturbance.

TOKYO, June 17.—(AP)—A severe but fleeting earthquake shook Tokyo, and terrified thousands of persons to-night.

Starting at 9:10 o'clock the quake first manifested itself by a horizontal motion. This quickly increased in intensity and developed into a series of perpendicular shocks.

Frightened thousands dashed into streets and gardens to safety. The tremors continued for about one minute.

Preliminary reports indicated there was no serious damage.

TALKING IT OVER

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Please help me to make a decision about a matter that I have been debating in my own mind for many years. I have a fourteen-year-old daughter, one of the fatherless children. Since she was born I have been moving from place to place trying to keep her from hearing the gossip that would ruin her life. I cannot go on this way indefinitely. She thinks her father died a hero in the World War. Sooner or later some gossip will tell her the cringing truth about my past. I love her more than anything in the world and had rather die than have heartache and disgrace come to her. Should I tell her the true state of affairs? JANE.

ANSWER:

My advice to you is to cross the continent. You have probably been moving around in a small orbit with it. She has been far enough away from the scene of your tragedy to insure secrecy about it. Gossip is like sound, it travels rather fast but you can put yourself so far away from it that it will lose its force before it reaches you.

It would be a great mistake to tell the daughter the truth about her origin. First, it might destroy her respect for her father. Second, it would be very unfair to make her suffer needlessly for a misdeed for which she was not responsible. Third, it might destroy her faith in human nature. A young girl's mother is her ideal of all that is pure, good and true and if her ideal is rudely broken the effect on her character may be disastrous.

Unfortunately, there are always some people who are mean enough to delight in perpetuating other people's mistakes and disgraces. Such meanness generally comes back on them like a boomerang but in the meantime they have set at work forces that damage the subject of their venomous tongues.

Leaving the promises and the threats of revelation completely out of the picture, the actual natural laws of life demand a huge price of the woman who, unmarried, brings a child into the world. She never can completely overcome the embarrassments connected with her child. She will suffer for the rest of her life. She cannot move far enough to rid herself of the spiritual torment but she can move far enough to protect the child from the knowledge that may darken all her future life.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am engaged to a girl in a distant city and because work is slack with me these days I cannot go to see her every weekend as I used to do. She is very much in love with me and she insists on dating other boys when I am not on the ground. It worries me to death. What can I do? M. B.

ANSWER:

You can be philosophical and argue that if the girl doesn't love you enough to go into voluntary exile when you are not with her it is better to know it before than after marriage. You cannot get anything but a temporary advantage by making demands of the person you love. So long as a girl is pleased to date other boys she will do it. It is not necessarily a proof that she doesn't love you. It is a sign that she isn't ready to marry you.

Only a selfish man would want his girl to sit at home and suck her thumbs while the other young people are going to dances, the movies and enjoying other forms of innocent amusement. Have a heart. If your fiancée won't permit you to show her a good time, don't penalize her for it. She will love you all the more for it. If a girl doesn't love a boy by comparison with other boys he is not the prize winner.

Culbertson on Contract

An Indispensable Yardstick

IV.

Low cards even when established cannot pass, without being ruffed, the barrier of enemy's trump. They are tricks only under protection of own trump fortress or if re-entrances are available, at no-trumps. Even honor combinations such as A K Q J lose half of their value when measured up against opponents' trump bids, for the third round is quite apt to be ruffed.

Often it is luck enough if the Ace and King can squeeze through and even Aces are ruffed. Now, a trump bid is far more potent than a no-trump and of all the bids the penalty double is the most important. But unless a player can definitely count on a partner's hand so as to add that minimum to his own taking honors, a penalty double becomes a wild, and often, disastrous guess.

One Fundamental. He could know even approximately whether opponent overbid or underbid or whether partner has a sure re-entry in other but his own bids. For this reason a function of minimum requirement in bridge requires that at first, or original bids and responses do show a certain minimum of defensive honor-tricks. They are also especially known as "suit" tricks, it matters little how quick they are so long as they get there. The minimum of defensive honor-tricks varies according to the bidding situation—an opening bid of one or higher, a jump or regulation (non-jump) response and so forth.

With a hand like
 ♠ Q J 9 8 7 5
 ♥ A 6 4 3
 ♦ A 5 4

the player should pass originally even though he can certainly make one or more spades.

His honor strength is below the minimum quota of 2-2-2-2 tricks. Besides, he will almost certainly have another opportunity to bid.

Measuring Bids. To measure these defensive bids,

FRAZER IS SENTENCED TO DEATH JULY 27
ELIZABETH, N. J., June 17.—(AP)—Under sentence of death for the slaying of his paramour, William Moore Frazer of Rahway, today awaited his execution, which has been set for July 27.

Frazer was found guilty late yesterday by a jury on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Phoebe Stader, also of Rahway, with whom he professed being in love.

The shooting occurred in the back seat of Frazer's automobile while it was parked at a cross-roads near Walden, N. Y. The defendant testified it was accidental. He said a rifle in the car was discharged accidentally as he re-arranged some luggage while he and Mrs. Stader were drinking in the rear seat.

Women Pastors Favored By British Methodists
DERBY, England, June 17.—(AP)—A joint committee of three Methodist churches—Wesleyan, Primitive and United Methodist—declared in a report today that there is no function of the ordained ministry for which woman is in principle disqualified by her sex. The report was read at the Primitive Methodist conference here.

The committee recommended that after the conference of 1932 every woman who believes herself called be allowed to offer herself as a candidate for the ministry. It also recommended that the conference should be appointed to report on available openings for women ministers and on the qualification of candidates.

THE NEW HOME IS APPROVED.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Who in his home may take no pride Should do his best the fact to hide. —Old Mother Nature.

It doesn't matter how simple or humble a home may be, if it is a true home there is some cause for pride in it. If love dwells therein there is something beautiful there, and it is the very best home that can be provided, even though it be poor, indeed, compared with other homes, there is no cause for shame. There is always cause for pride in doing the best you can, even though that best be not much.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubbail, the sleek young Prairie-dogs who had been hard at work making a new home, their first home, next door to Yap Yap's home, had finished it and felt that they had earned a short vacation. Both had worked and worked hard in the making of that home, and that was a splendid way in which to start out together. They had contributed equally to planning it, to digging it, and now that it was finished they were equally proud of it.

In truth, they had reason to be proud of it. It had been planned and dug according to the latest and best ideas in Prairie-dog home-making. To begin with, it had a long entrance hall just big enough for a plump Prairie-dog to pass through easily and comfortably, but not big enough for any one larger to enter. That hall was a very long hall indeed. It went down at a very steep angle for about 20 feet. This was much deeper than the halls of many other houses in the town. It had meant a great deal of work, of hard work, and more than once the Stubbails had been tempted to end it. Then one would remind the other of a certain home they knew of with a hall going down only a few feet from the surface because the owners had been too lazy to dig deeper. This had been dug open by Digger the Badger and after that the lazy couple were seen no more. At the thought of that dreadful affair the Stubbails would resume work with renewed energy.

At about fifteen feet down the hall was turned at right angles and carried along for nearly as far. Opening from this was a comfortable bedroom with a bed of grass. A little farther along another room, a sort of "store," opened from the hall. This was for use later. The earth that had been taken out was used to build a mound with the doorway in the middle, and this mound had been built with care. As they built it up the earth was pressed down firmly with their noses. You see, it wouldn't do to leave the earth loose, for then it would be forever falling down into the house as they went in and out. So they built this mound with care. It had two purposes. One was to prevent water running into their home during heavy rains, and the other was to give them a place to sit where they would be high enough to look over their surroundings and watch for possible danger.

TENNESSEE SENATE REAFFIRMS DRY STAND
NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Tennessee's senate voted today to "reaffirm itself to the cause of prohibition of the liquor traffic."

The resolution was adopted, it urged the authorities of the federal government and of the state government as well, to leave nothing undone looking to the rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws, and "we pledge all aid in our power in bringing about this result."

Before the resolution was acted on, Senator John Brown, of Shelby, inquired: "Does this interfere in any way with the amalgamated union of home brewers?" There was no response to his question.

REVIVED BUYING TASTE CALLED BUSINESS NEED

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—C. F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors Corporation, today told American advertising men in convention he believes business will come back when products are produced that people want to buy.

He diagnosed the ills of the country as "industrial stagnation" and added, "that is all that is wrong with us."

Mr. Kettering was one of several prominent figures in the business world from whom the Advertising Federation of America heard today in the third general session of its annual convention. The convention closes tomorrow with election of members of the board of directors.

"When we continue to produce the same things, the same models indefinitely, the product becomes monotonous and the people don't want to buy it."

Discussion of the economic situation and what can be done about it has transcended interest in the more technical talks of the industry at the convention. Several new ideas were added by the speakers today, were included Colby M. Chester Jr., president of General Foods Corporation; D. F. Kelly, Chicago, president of National Retail Dry Goods Association; Miss Marion C. Taylor president of the Fashion Association, New York; Edwin C. Gruhl, vice president and general manager of the North American Company, and Joseph H. Appel, advertising manager of the New York Times.

It was election day for several groups within the federation. Don U. Bridges, The News, Indianapolis, Ind., was elected president of the Newspaper Advertising Executive Association. R. S. McCarty, of the Philadelphia Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected president of the Public Utilities Advertising Association. W. T. Twomey, of Boston, is the new chairman of the Retail Dry Goods Association division of the federation.

THREE WOUNDED IN BEER BATTLE
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—Beer gangsters exchanged shots in a restaurant here early today leaving three victims, one of them probably fatally wounded.

He is Raymond Johnson, a newspaper vendor, shot in the spine and heart region, lying at the Crouse Irving hospital.

Stephen Mezzatesta, 31, shot three times in the legs was in a serious condition at the Crouse Irving hospital.

Anthony Palermo, 24, is in Syracuse Memorial hospital with a bullet wound in the right hip.

The shooting was held by Syracuse police today on orders of Assistant District Attorney William C. Martin.

FATHER AND SON HELD IN KILLING
FULTON, Miss., June 17.—(AP)—Walter Holley, 32, and his son, Delmar, 25, were held tonight on murder charges pending completion of an investigation of the fatal wounding of Thomas Holley, 53, brother of Walter, and Alvin Williams, 35, son-in-law of Thomas Holley.

MOTHER, CHILD LOST IN CANADIAN STORM
DRUMHELLER, Alberta, June 17.—(AP)—A cloudburst at the town of Wayne last night swept away a house in which a mother and her 12-year-old son were living, flooded a mine and undermined roads and filled basements.

The deluge carried away the home of James Graham. His wife and son, believed to have been in the building, were not seen again.

The nearby Excelsior mine on the hill was flooded and a section of roadway leading to the mine caved in. It was not immediately learned whether the Graham house, a small dwelling, was carried away by the rising waters of Rosebud creek or swept into the mine.

INDIAN EARTHQUAKE KILLS 15 PERSONS

London Visitors Arrive in City To Attend Wedding

London visitors arriving in Atlanta tomorrow will be Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Inwood and their daughter, Miss Dorris Inwood, who are coming here especially to attend the marriage of Miss Lydia Owens Wheeler and James Love Baskin, which will be a brilliant social event of next Saturday evening, taking place in the First Baptist church on Peachtree street.

The friendship of the bride-elect's family dates back to the year of 1918, when the World War was raging, and Dr. Alton Everett Wheeler, father of Miss Wheeler, was stationed in London as medical director for the United States army. He often visited Mr. and Mrs. Inwood at Cravenhurst, their estate seven miles west of London, in the suburb called Ealing. Such fast friends did these Britishers and Dr. Wheeler become, that when Mrs. Wheeler and Miss Wheeler journeyed to England in 1929, they were invited to visit Mr. and Mrs. Inwood at Cravenhurst.

Other important guests coming from a distance to attend the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baskin, of Anderson, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. George Frank Leitzner, of Florence, S. C.; Mrs. Joseph McKeon, of Springfield, Mass.; William Warren, of Gastonia, N. C.; and William Lehman, of Chicago, Ill.

Miss McPhaul Feted At Party Series In Charlotte, N. C.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 17.—Many charming pre-nuptial parties are scheduled in honor of Miss Shirley McPhaul whose marriage to Randolph Whitfield, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Atlanta, will be solemnized June 26 at the Myers Park Presbyterian church.

Miss Edna Bassett entertained at bridge in honor of Miss McPhaul Tuesday afternoon. Miss Virginia Motte entertained at bridge at her home in Myers park this afternoon. Miss Mary Sue Ledford will entertain for her Friday afternoon and Miss Eleanor Black will entertain Saturday afternoon. Tuesday, June 22, Miss Julia Rowan will entertain at a luncheon at her home. Wednesday, the 24th, Mrs. Lee Parker and Mrs. George Grantham, the latter an aunt of the bride, will be hostesses at a party entertaining at the Parker home in Myers park. Miss Amelia Bruns will entertain at a buffet supper at her home on Elizabeth avenue Wednesday evening, the 24th. Miss Kathleen Wakefield will entertain the bride party following the rehearsal on Wednesday evening, the 24th.

On the day of the wedding, Miss Scottie Johnston will entertain at a breakfast at the Myers Park Club in honor of Miss McPhaul.

Home Reception.

A charming complement to a bride-elect and her fiancé was the reception at which Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Harper were hosts Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock at their home on Fifteenth street in honor of Miss Lydia Wheeler and James Love Baskin, whose marriage will be a social event of Saturday, June 26. Receiving with the hosts were Miss Wheeler, Mr. Baskin and Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Wheeler. Assisting the hosts in receiving were Mrs. George Brown Hoyt and Mrs. Henry Maddux. Miss Brown Sterne presided at the punch bowl. The guests included 40 friends of the young couple and the members of their bride party.

Civic Club Tea.

Civic Club of West End is sponsoring a bridge-tea Friday, June 19, at 2:30 o'clock at the clubhouse. Tables are $1 each. Hostesses will be Mrs. C. C. Chamberlain, Mrs. W. D. Marshall, Mrs. T. E. Branch. Refreshments will be served and there will be a table prize and draw prizes.

Miss Ficken Weds Robert A. Lansdell At West End Church

The wedding of Miss Anna Kathryn Ficken and Robert Alexander Lansdell was solemnized last evening at 6 o'clock at the West End Presbyterian church with Rev. E. L. Flanagan officiating. The church decorations featured large urns holding white gladioli and Madonna lilies interspersed in a background of palms and ferns. Preceding the ceremony Ernest Allen sang a group of selections accompanied by Miss Lily Allen at the organ. Miss Allen played an appropriate program of organ music.

Miss Floy Dunlap, the maid of honor, was gowned in peach-colored tulle and carried a hat of lace in matching tones and she carried a bouquet of Lady Hillington roses showered with sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, Miss Grace Ficken and Mrs. H. H. Stephenson, of Albany, were gowned alike in models of mint green tulle. They also wore matching hats of lace and carried sheaf of pale shaded gladioli and snapdragons. Mr. Lansdell had as his best man his brother, A. T. Lansdell, of Rome. Dr. A. Loggins and H. H. Stephenson acted as groomsmen.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, George W. Ficken, was lovely in her close-fitting gown of white lace and tulle. Her veil of illusion tulle fell from a cap confined to her head by sprays of orange blossoms. She wore an exquisite cameo which had belonged to her great-grandmother, and carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies. Mrs. Ficken, mother of the bride, wore a becoming model of Alice blue chiffon, with a matching hat and accessories, and a spray of rosebuds completed her costume. Immediately after the wedding Mr. Lansdell and his bride left for a wedding trip to Florida, after which they will return to Atlanta to make their home.

Miss Crowder Is Honored by Miss Saunders

A charming affair of June among the college contingent was the garden party and going away shower given Monday by Miss Margaret Saunders at her home on Saunders avenue in compliment to Miss Henri Frances Crowder, of Griffin, president of Gamma Alpha chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority at the University of Georgia. Miss Crowder leaves June 23 to attend the Alpha Gamma Delta summer camp at Jackson, Mich., and from there she goes to Pasadena, Cal., for the Alpha Gamma Delta International convention to be held at Hotel Huntington.

Miss Saunders received her guests in the picturesque garden surrounding her home, where a delicious three-course buffet supper was served at twilight. The guests were all students at the University of Georgia, and members of Gamma Alpha chapter, and included Misses Henri Frances Crowder, of Griffin; Wynelle Groover, of Toccoa; Laurin Upshaw, of Social Circle; Marion Blanchard, of Crawford; Augusta Pike, of LaGrange; Jane Prather, of LaGrange; Joanne Lyons, of Manilla, P. I.; Gladys Holland, of Collins; Lucile Crabtree, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Helen Roehrer, of Rockmart; Virginia Wilson, of Duluth, and Misses Eloise Settle, Celestia Dunlap, Katherine Bryan and Leslie Bailey, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Seydel Plans Tea at Brookhaven For Mrs. McCarthy

Among the interesting events featuring Friday's social calendar will be a tea at which Mrs. Paul Seydel will be hostess as a complimentary gesture to Mrs. F. J. McCarthy, who has recently arrived from New York to join Mr. McCarthy for residence in the city. Mrs. McCarthy forms a prominent and a charming addition to ranks of Atlanta society and with Mr. McCarthy, who is an important figure in newspaper circles, is receiving a cordial welcome.

Mrs. Seydel will assemble a small group of Atlanta matrons to meet at 4:30 o'clock at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club. Covers will be placed for Mrs. McCarthy, Mesdames John M. Slator, Robert Woodruff, Joel Hurt, Ewell Gay, Thomas K. Glenn, Charles Lordan, Ronald Ransom and the hostess, Mrs. Seydel.

Mrs. Walker Is Honored

Mrs. R. Murdock Walker, recently elected president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, was honored guest at a luncheon given yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club by the officers of the federation. Mrs. Norman Sharp, a former president of the federation, presided at the luncheon, which included the following officers: Mesdames J. M. Brainerd, Francis Block, R. H. Wolfe, E. V. Carter, George Ripley Jr., E. K. Large, Alfred Myers and Miss Rosa Woodberry.

Mrs. Walker is a native of South Carolina, having been before her marriage Miss Emily Ravenel, of Charleston, member of a distinguished aristocratic family, and since coming to Atlanta some 25 years ago she has made a wide circle of admiring friends.

Her husband, the late R. Murdock Walker, was very prominent in building circles and in business and social activities of the city. Her children are Ravel Walker, Miss Catherine Walker, Mrs. Howell Caldwell and Miss Murdock Walker.

Mrs. Walker takes a prominent part in the civic activities of Atlanta and has given tirelessly of her time and thought to the city's progress. Her election to this high office will add another link to a distinguished record of service to the city.

Miss Evelyn Lewis Teaches in Athens

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—Miss Evelyn Lewis, of Atlanta, who was formerly head of the department of oratory at State Teachers' College, will have charge of this department in the University of Georgia summer school, substituting for Miss Carolyn Vance. Miss Lewis is a graduate of Emerson College of Oratory, receiving the B. L. L. degree from that institution. She has recently spent a winter in Boston, taking post graduate work in drama, literature, story-telling pantomime and other subjects.

Miss Lewis spent three years on the public reading platform, under direction of the Chicago lyceum bureau, and has been a member of the Green system in the south. She was head of the department of expression at Agnes Scott College for several years, having there to go on the reading platform. She taught in the high school in Colorado Springs, Col., in the English department and had charge of the public speaking and dramatic department, and was dramatic coach for the plays given at Colorado College in Colorado Springs. The Colorado Springs Gazette in writing of Miss Lewis said: "A Midsummer Night's Dream," under the direction of Miss Evelyn Lewis, was the most beautiful Shakespearean play that has ever been presented at Colorado College."

Atlantans Visit Connahayne Lodge.

TATE MOUNTAIN ESTATES, Ga., June 17.—Connahayne Lodge was the mecca of many Atlantans and Georgians lured to the high Blue Ridge ranges during the week-end. Plowden-Mallard Wedding Rites Beautifully Solemnized at Home

Miss Sarah Frances Plowden became the bride of Sanford McCord Mallard at a beautiful ceremony solemnized at 6 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Plowden, on Sutherland drive. Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, read the marriage service which was witnessed by a group of friends and relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

A charming arrangement of palms and ferns combined with pink roses and pink and white larkspur, formed a lovely floral setting for the bridal party. The vows were taken before an altar built of palms, ferns and southern smilax, interspersed with baskets of long-stemmed pink roses. Roses and larkspur in shades of pink and white adorned the rooms throughout the home where the guests were received.

Nuptial Music. A program of nuptial music was furnished by Miss Eloise Olds, pianist, and Miss Margaret Battle, soloist, who sang "Ab, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly."

Heralding the approach of the bride and groom were young bridesmaids, Carlisle Adams and Beverly Thomason. Little Miss Thomason wore a dainty frock of pastel green georgette with trimmings of hand-made French flowers.

The groomsmen were Max B. Roseberry and Harold Tyler. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Richard E. Plowden, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Claude Williams.

Cerulean blue crepe romaine, modeled on princess lines, fashioned the bride's becoming costume. The long sleeves were developed in boy-styled chintilly lace which formed the only trimming of the gown which fell in graceful, flaring lines to the floor. A picture hat of the same tone in blue and an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies completed the bridal ensemble.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Mr. Mallard and his bride will be at home at their apartment on Seminole avenue. Later they will take a wedding journey to New York and other points of interest in the east, the trip having been postponed on account of the recent illness of the bridegroom.

Miss Moss and Dr. Oberdorfer Wed at Standard Club Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Carol Ruth Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris W. Moss, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Dr. Louis D. Oberdorfer, of Jacksonville, Fla., was solemnized at a brilliant ceremony last evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the Standard Club on Ponce de Leon avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi David Marx in the ballroom, and was witnessed by an assemblage of relatives and close friends. Baskets filled with white gladioli, alternated with seven-branched candelabra, holding lighted tapers and were arranged in front of the improvised altar, the background being formed by stately palms, the altar being erected in the north end of the spacious ballroom.

Bridal Party. Miss Elise Brasch, of Jacksonville, Fla., was bridesmaid, and was gowned in powder blue lace, veiling blue tulle, and fashioned on princess lines, her slippers and hose matching her costume. She carried a sheaf of spring flowers, tied with pink ribbon. The little flower girl, Miss Joyce Oberdorfer, cousin of the bridegroom, wore a frock of pink chiffon, trimmed with blue ribbons and carried an old-fashioned colonial bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers.

Miss Marjorie Serf was maid of honor, and her gown was of ecru lace, fashioned along princess lines, and veiling peach-colored tulle. Max N. Oberdorfer Jr. acted as best man for his brother, the bridegroom, and Donald Oberdorfer was groomsmen.

Lovely Bride. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. W. Moss, with whom she entered the ballroom. She was radiantly lovely in her bridal robes of white Chantilly lace, veiling white satin and tulle. The round neck bodice was light-fitting and was finished with tiny puff sleeves. The full, flaring skirt touched the floor, and her ivory satin slippers were decorated with rosettes of lace and orange blossoms. The filmy tulle veil was fastened to her hair by a becoming royal lace cap and the wreath of orange blossoms used to hold her veil in place was worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day. The train, was trimmed with satin love-knots and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies, showered with valley lilies.

Charlie Yates, Dannals Win in First Round at Chattanooga; Crackers Rally To Defeat Chicks in Second Game, 7 to 3

"Look how that bozo stands up to the plate and swings," said Frank Longinotti, road secretary of the Chicks, yesterday as he watched Roy Carlyle fire a single past Clarence Griffin's ears.

"That old boy looks as good as he did that day here in 1924 when we sold him to Washington. Roy has come all the way back, if ever a ball player did come back."

"The afternoon I recall was just about this hot. Clark Griffith, the old fox himself, was sitting back of the Memphis dugout taking a look at Carlyle. He was our boss hitter that year. The Old Fox was undecided, though."

"Carlyle came up to the plate somewhere along in the fourth inning and rode that ball out of the park, over the right field fence and on beyond a line of box cars standing up there on the side track. Clark Griffith stood straight up when that ball sailed over the wall. And that night the Old Fox signed on the dotted line."

Atlanta fans who were so fortunate as to see that blow never will forget it. It has been done only once since; Babe Ruth hit one over there in an exhibition game.

GIVE THE ROY A HAND.

Carlyle's comeback is one of the fine things of the 1931 season.

The big Norcross man had to work all winter to get in shape and practice stern self-denial in his rigid program.

He has been rewarded by leading the league in every phase of hitting and is fielding jam-up. Beyond that, his reward is a comfortable feeling of having done a hard job well.

LIVE AND LEARN.

Frank Longinotti is one official who is a rabid rooster. When the game starts he forgets all about such problems as gate receipts, railroad schedules, and the hundred minor worries of keeping 18 ball players satisfied.

He usually climbs into the press box and yells or groans as the fortunes of the game affect his club.

Between innings yesterday it was easy to see that the Memphis secretary was impressed by the success of night baseball here. That the Crackers have drawn as many paying guests in 14 night games as they have in 20 day games is a "statistic" that intrigued him. Longinotti has seen the figures and one can imagine what his report will be to Boss Tom Watkins.

PROTHRO IS WAITING.

Doc Prothro, the Chicks' hot corner manager, is playing ball for all he is worth and waiting for the w. k. worm to do an about face.

"We have a good ball club right now," Manager Prothro says, "and we are down in the race because some of the boys have been in a hitting slump. They are bound to hit their stride again. Tommy Taylor should be in Wednesday to help us. Andy Reese is driving in from the coast and should get here—well, before Christmas anyhow."

"We are not hunting for any more players right now. I think the ones we have will begin clicking inside of a week and then we will take a hand in the race."

DOC'S HANDICAP SHEET.

Some of Prothro's observations on the state of the John D. Martin republic are:

The Barons do not look quite so hot as they did three weeks ago.

The club to watch right now is Chattanooga; every player Bert Niehoff and Joe Engel bought has made good.

The Pelicans will get going immediately.

The Crackers do not look at all bad, especially the pitchers.

Kit May and Roscoe Shepherd will help the Chicks plenty from now on in; they are in shape again.

MEET IN FINALS AT DRUID HILLS

Dr. Ballenger Meets Russell Bridges for President's Trophy.

Dr. E. G. Ballenger and Russell Bridges will meet on the Druid Hills course during the week-end in an 18-hole match to decide the winner of the annual President's trophy tournament.

Dr. Ballenger defeated Joe Shaw, 1 up, on the 27th green and Bridges defeated Wilmer Davis, 3-2, in the semi-finals during the early part of the week.

In the second flight Joe Horacek Jr. advanced to the finals with a 5-4 victory over George Argo. Argo won by default from J. R. Wilson in the quarter-finals after Wilson had won by default from L. L. Tannev.

East Lake Golfers Continue Qualifying.

East Lake golfers will continue play today, Friday and Saturday in the qualifying rounds for the annual Latham & Atkinson trophy tournament. Qualifying started Wednesday but very few scores were turned in.

A majority of the players are expected to complete the rounds Friday and Saturday afternoons, after which match play will start Sunday afternoon.

The tournament will be played over the 18-hole course and the trophies and prizes will be on display at the club during the latter part of the week.

Hancock Wins In Second Flight.

Kirk Hancock won the second flight of the president's trophy tournament on the Capital City Country Club course with a 3-1 victory over John Westmoreland in the finals.

Westmoreland defeated J. T. Riley in the quarter-finals and won by default over T. H. McKee in the semi-finals. McKee defeated Dr. Shelly Davis, 4-3, in the quarter-finals.

Hancock advanced to the finals with a 2-1 victory over Sam Cooper in the semi-finals.

SHIELDS, WOOD SEEDED IN MEET

Helen Jacobs Placed on Women's Seeded List at Wimbledon.

LONDON, June 17.—(AP)—Francis Shields and Sidney Wood, American tennis stars, were seeded among the top eight players today in the men's singles for the Wimbledon tournament. Helen Jacobs was the only American girl to be seeded in the women's singles.

The eight men in the order of the draw were: Jean Borotra, Henri Cochet, Shields, Christian Bousquet, F. J. Perry, H. W. "Bunny" Austin, Wood and J. Satch.

The order of the women's draw was: Cecilie Aussem, Betty Nuthall, Mme. Mathieu, Fraulein Krawinkel, Ella D'Alvarez, Miss Jacobs, P. E. Mumford and Miss Fearnley-Whitting-stall.

In the women's doubles were Perry, Lott and Fearnley-Whitting-stall, and in the men's doubles were Shields and Wood, and Cochet and Fearnley-Whitting-stall. P. D. B. Spence and Nuthall, V. G. Kirby and Miss. Sigart, Hughes and Miss E. H. Harvey.

Atlanton Out; Bell Is in Fourth Round

WILMINGTON, Del., June 17.—(AP)—Two victories placed Berkeley Bell of Texas, third seeded star, in the fourth round today when play was resumed in the men's twenty-third annual Delaware state grass court tennis championships here.

Bell defeated George W. Crowe, Wilmington, 6-1, 6-4, in the second round, and eliminated Louis Kurland, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3, in the third.

R. P. Hare, of Georgia, lost to Nicely by default in the first round.

YATES, DANNALS TAKE MATCHES IN CHATTAHOOGA

Medalist Is Beaten; Perry, Spicer Advance in Southern Meet.

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHATTAHOOGA, Tenn., June 17.—(AP)—Seamus Horner, the young medalist from Nashville, today found the end of the trail, but other favorites, including the defending champion from Memphis, Emmett Spicer, won their way into the second round of the championship flight match play in the southern amateur golf tournament here.

Horner, whose 71 yesterday won medal honors in the qualifying round over the Riverview course, today lost, two and one, to Wilbur Oakes Jr., in a selective round match that went to the 17th green before the Chattanooga could pull out a victory.

Oakes, whose father is professional at this club, was off to a fast lead, standing three up through the 15th hole. Horner won the 9th and made the turn two down. Oakes was out in 40 and Seaudy in 44. Both shot better golf coming in with Oakes only one above perfect figures.

HIS MAIN TROUBLE.

Horner's main trouble came in his approach, which generally were short or wide of the green. Both Seaudy and Wilbur three-puttled several greens.

Two of the five qualifiers from Atlanta, Ga., successfully passed the first round. Charlie Yates defeated Elliott Haas, also of Atlanta, four and two. Charles Dannals beat Fred Moore, of Chattanooga, four and three. Bobby Chambers and Charles Brumby were eliminated.

Spicer, after a day's layoff during the qualifying round, fired a par 36 on the out nine today and won his match, three and two, from J. C. Lanza, of New Orleans. Spicer missed one-foot putt on the 9th hole but would have had a deuce here and a 35 out.

SAM PERRY WINS.

Sam Perry, the 1929 titlist from Birmingham, came through his first match with a 4-and-3 win over Ed Elmore, Chattanooga, and Polly Boyd, Tennessee state champion, of Chattanooga. Boyd was eliminated.

Spicer, after a day's layoff during the qualifying round, fired a par 36 on the out nine today and won his match, three and two, from J. C. Lanza, of New Orleans. Spicer missed one-foot putt on the 9th hole but would have had a deuce here and a 35 out.

Erwin Laxton, Charlotte, shot nine consecutive fours on the first nine but was carried to the 18th green to defeat Jack Selzer, Asheville, one up. Chastain Harris, the Memphis campaigner, gave Bob Gormley, the former Mississippi champion from Laurel, a neat five-and-four losing.

RICHMOND THREAT.

Billy Howell, the young Richmond threat, safely jumped his first engagement by downing John Thomas, Birmingham, four and three.

Yates, Atlanta, downed Elliott Haas, Atlanta, four and two; Darden Hampton, Chattanooga, beat John Grant, Chattanooga, one up; Billy Williams, Rome, Ga., won from Frank Nelson, Birmingham, two and one; Bill Voigt, Chattanooga, bested the veteran Tom White, of Memphis, one up; Alan Smith, Asheville, won from Fred Leake, Nashville, two up; Frank Siz, Gadsden, Ala., defeated Bobby Chambers, Atlanta, two and one, and Charles Dannals, Atlanta, beat Fred Moore, Chattanooga, four and three.

Tomorrow's pairings send Laxton against Yates, Hampton against Howell, McWilliams against Boyd, Oakes against Voigt, Smith against Siz, Harris against Dannals, Spicer against Campbell and Perry against Boyd.

REMARKABLE RECORD.

Philadelphia, which has won 23 of its 26 games against western clubs this season, is scheduled for 16 games in the west, four at Chicago, five at St. Louis, four at Detroit and three at Cleveland.

The Senators closed their home stand today with an 8-to-7 victory over St. Louis. It was Washington's twelfth consecutive victory and the fifteenth in sixteen starts against westerners.

BLUEGE'S HIT WINS.

Bluege's triple scored West with the winning run in the ninth inning. The game was a nip-and-tuck affair with St. Louis getting away to a three-run lead in the first inning and coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth. Each team made 16 hits, with five pitchers seeing action and "Fip" Marberry getting credit for the victory.

Philadelphia also closed its home stand with a victory, defeating Cleveland, 4 to 2, for a record of 12 victories and three defeats in their home series against western teams.

George Earnshaw outpitched Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, and aided the Athletics' attack with a single and driving in one run and scoring another. Earnshaw allowed only five hits and never was in danger after his first two-run lead in the first three innings. Ferrell allowed seven hits in as many innings and the A's added two blows off Brown in the eighth.

WAR BREAKS OUT! Golfer Vs. Gopher

KANSAS CITY, June 17.—(AP)—Harvey Kling, 27, took his hole temporarily to shoot the Blue Hills golf course with a shotgun.

Only one game was scheduled in the National League, with Brooklyn remaining at Pittsburgh for a 2-to-0 victory before moving east, with other seaboard teams which will entertain western rivals during the next fortnight.

Lefty Clark was the hero of the Robins' victory, shutting out the Pirates with seven well distributed blows and driving in the first run in the fourth inning. Gilbert's double walks to Herman and O'Doul, and Wright's liner gave Brooklyn an extra run in the seventh and clinched the contest.

Andy Caught at Home Plate

Andy Messinger, the big Cracker righthander, who hurled himself one of those games you read so much about, was caught at home plate trying to steal the thing yesterday afternoon at Spiller field in the game with the Chicks, which Messenger and the Crackers won, 7-3. It happened in the fourth inning and the picture above shows him tagged at the plate by Beck, Chick hurler, who covered the position in the absence of Catcher Moss, who was recovering a wild pitch. Umpire Shannon is shown just before calling Messenger out.

A'S, SENATORS FAR IN FRONT

Both Clubs, Boasting Great Home Records, Begin Western Tours.

By Dixon Stewart, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—With the American League pennant race definitely settled down to a fight between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators, the leaders embarked tonight on a western tour which may be an important factor in deciding the ultimate winner of the 1931 championship.

Both teams were highly successful in their home stands, which closed today, and as a result are far ahead of their rivals. Philadelphia, the leader, enjoys a 24 game lead over Washington with the other teams so far back that they are not mentioned.

The Athletics, which have won 23 of its 26 games against western clubs this season, is scheduled for 16 games in the west, four at Chicago, five at St. Louis, four at Detroit and three at Cleveland.

Washington, with a season's record of 24 victories and three defeats against the west, will play five games at Cleveland, four at Detroit, five at Chicago and three at St. Louis.

The Senators closed their home stand today with an 8-to-7 victory over St. Louis. It was Washington's twelfth consecutive victory and the fifteenth in sixteen starts against westerners.

Bluege's triple scored West with the winning run in the ninth inning. The game was a nip-and-tuck affair with St. Louis getting away to a three-run lead in the first inning and coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth. Each team made 16 hits, with five pitchers seeing action and "Fip" Marberry getting credit for the victory.

Philadelphia also closed its home stand with a victory, defeating Cleveland, 4 to 2, for a record of 12 victories and three defeats in their home series against western teams.

George Earnshaw outpitched Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, and aided the Athletics' attack with a single and driving in one run and scoring another. Earnshaw allowed only five hits and never was in danger after his first two-run lead in the first three innings. Ferrell allowed seven hits in as many innings and the A's added two blows off Brown in the eighth.

Lefty Clark was the hero of the Robins' victory, shutting out the Pirates with seven well distributed blows and driving in the first run in the fourth inning. Gilbert's double walks to Herman and O'Doul, and Wright's liner gave Brooklyn an extra run in the seventh and clinched the contest.

WAR BREAKS OUT! Golfer Vs. Gopher

KANSAS CITY, June 17.—(AP)—Harvey Kling, 27, took his hole temporarily to shoot the Blue Hills golf course with a shotgun.

Only one game was scheduled in the National League, with Brooklyn remaining at Pittsburgh for a 2-to-0 victory before moving east, with other seaboard teams which will entertain western rivals during the next fortnight.

This Max Schmeling Is Nobody's Dumb-Bell

When the Boys Say He's Not Smart, Tell Them the Following Story.

By Ralph McGill, Staff Correspondent.

MAX SCHMELING'S TRAINING CAMP, CONNEAUT PARK LAKE, Pa., June 17.—Herr Siegfried M. Schmeling is not the dumb-for-eign cluck some of the boys have been claiming he is. Not by several links of Frankfurters.

Just yesterday afternoon your well-dressed envoy is visiting on the Schmeling front porch when a group of fat and thin ladies, smirking so much as to look very silly indeed, come waddling in to visit the champion and pay him their respects.

It seems that the good ladies all have German blood in their veins and names which go along with that good food, sauerkraut.

There is a big tall man with them, who looks as if several selds of beer might put some weight on his bones. He looks like no German, but he is. And says so in a loud voice.

"Just a minute," says Yussell Jacobs, who is very smart himself, "and I will get Max some pictures to photograph for you."

Now Joe Jacobs makes this sound as if it were a very great and unusual favor as he hurries into the room. What he does not tell them is that there is a big basket of pictures there for just such a purpose.

When the pictures arrive the man with a loud voice takes them and hands one out to Max.

"Just make this out to Mr. and Mrs. Zik—"

"Nein, nein, nein," interrupts the champion firmly. "I do not see why for in this country the Mr. has to come first. I shall write them Mrs. and Mr. And he does. And such a giggling no one has ever heard as the ladies beamed on the champion who was putting more and more in place. Even this tall, loud person was punctured and silent.

Now, of course, in Max Schmeling's home country the women come first. And he does. And such a giggling no one has ever heard as the ladies beamed on the champion who was putting more and more in place. Even this tall, loud person was punctured and silent.

Wacycross, Douglas Tied in Golf League

WACYCROSS, Ga., June 17.—Wacycross and Douglas are now tied for the leadership in the Tobacco Belt Golf league, both teams having won five out of eight matches and having a percentage of 62.5.

Fitzgerald has won four of the eight matches and has a percentage of 50.0. Tifton has won two of the eight matches and has a percentage of 25.0.

On Thursday afternoon of this week Wacycross plays Douglas in Douglas and Fitzgerald plays Tifton in Tifton.

JOHN CHAPMAN PLAYS TONIGHT

New Third Baseman Is Obtained for Lamotte and Cash.

Johnny Chapman, Nashville third baseman, for whom the Crackers gave Bobby Lamotte and a cash consideration in a deal Wednesday to strengthen the Atlanta team, will report to Acting Manager Chick Autry this afternoon and will play in the game tonight against Memphis.

Amos Martin played third base in the game Wednesday afternoon. Lamotte departed for Nashville Wednesday night to join his new mates.

Chapman is one of the outstanding players as well and will add considerable punch to the Cracker batting attack.

Lamotte is hitting only .277, despite a rise in the past few games. He was secured last year from Chattanooga in a trade which sent Johnny Jones to the Lookouts. Jones was later traded to a Piedmont league team for a 22-pound turkey by Joe Engel.

Knight Is Matched With Rosenbloom

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 17.—(AP)—Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., southpaw, who claims the mythical lightweight championship of the south, is to get a crack at the chin of Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, in a 10-round, non-title fight at Charleston, S. C., July 17. It was announced here today.

The announcement was made following a conference at which articles of agreement were signed by Manager J. H. Johnson, Charleston matchmaker, and V. Duckworth, Knight's manager.

W. L. "Young" Stribling, leading contender for the world's heavyweight championship, will referee the match. Promoters from a number of southern cities sought the fight.

The battle will be Knight's first bout of major importance since he forced his way to the front among Dixie light-heavyweights by knocking out Bob Godwin, Daytona Beach; Yale Okun, New York; and Bobbie Evans, at Miami. He is the third southern battler to be matched with Rosenbloom.

Battling Bozo, Birmingham, twice fought Maxie to draw decisions, and Tony Canela, Tampa, went the full 10 rounds at Tampa last winter, but lost a decision to Rosenbloom.

Jim Thorpe Gets Place in Movies

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—(AP)—Jim Thorpe, the great Indian football player, Olympic star and all-around athlete, has entered the movies to draw pay for what his ancestors did in the regular course of their aboriginal business. He has been cast in a western picture as a chief in frontier battle scenes.

Thorpe recently was digging ditches to support his family. He later announced he had obtained a high school coaching position in an Oklahoma city suburb.

TRIBE HITTERS HEAD IN CHECK BY MESSENGER

Barnes, Taitt and Carlyle Pound Two Pitchers for Victory.

By Ed Danforth.

Andy Messinger galloped into Spiller field yesterday afternoon with bad news for the Memphis Chickasaws. The bad news was held in 11 strikeout envelopes that Andy messaged to the Chickasaws.

Along with the 11 strikeout envelopes were just seven that contained praise in the form of base hits. What a load of grief Andy messaged around! Andy's lottery was mostly blanks.

The Crackers won the second ball game of the series, 7 to 3, by way of rewarding Andy. That squared the Chick set and left the road clear for a rousing contest tonight at 8 o'clock when Climax Blenheim, the Doerslayer, will wave his old arm under the electric lights.

Messenger's performance was the outstanding pitching feat of the campaign. He worked his magic through his fast ball, which for the first time this season was obeying him.

Messenger's fast ball is the queerest ever. Sometimes it sinks, breaking sharply downward at the plate. Again it sails, darting upward just as the batter is set to swing. Andy himself cannot tell whether his fast ball will sink or sail. But does he care?

Such pitching is tough on Catcher Martin Autry, who must be in there trying to outguess this erratic fast ball of Andy's.

Messenger said after the game, "I never could get going until hot weather comes along. It makes me a lot faster for some reason."

Andy messaged better and better as the game went on. In the second inning the Chicks rapped him for two trips and a single that gave them two runs. In the third Andy walked the first hitter and saw him batted across with a dinky single after two were down. From then on the Cracker pulled the string on his fast ball and the Chicks were a path through the burned grass from their dugout to the plate and back again.

The Crackers came from under that three-run lead in their half of the third with a rousing batting attack that climaxed in a home run by Barnes. Barnes led off with a single and took second when left-fielder Hamel let it get away from him. Doctor Prothro times a single that gave them a difficult chance, with Barnes crossing in front of him, and two were on base. Poco Taitt jerked the lanyard and Barnes crossed home.

Shirley singled Taitt around to the top and they stayed, 4-to-3, until the seventh.

Lefty Griffin survived that third inning attack but was relieved in the fourth by Walter Beck. Walter rocked along smoothly enough until the seventh.

Fireworks Begin

Then Barnes singled. Sheehan dumped a bunt down the first base line that rolled and rolled on the grass and caught Poco at 30 feet. Jack made it safely to first. Taitt poked one between short and third to score Barnes. Hamel came in on the run and scored. The Cracker's lead was 5 to 3.

Mule Shirley had only three put outs at first base; the Chicks when not striking out were lifting high over him.

The Chicks were charged with five errors, three of which were expensive. And one Cracker sold out and stole five bases, victimizing young Ken Moss who was subbing for the injured Catcher Berger.

The only cause for complaint was the bases on balls of 14—the number of the field to the other after the Chicks' long lists. He made at least two remarkable catches.

John Ryan at short went all afternoon without handling the ball "for the first time in my life," Johnny said afterward.

And Tex James attempted a bunt and instead fouled the ball off his check bone—painful but not enough to keep him out of the game.

American Horses

Defeated at Ascot

ASCOT, England, June 17.—(AP)—Two highly regarded American horses, Woodward's Elmer and Woodward's Elmer, finished in the field of six horses in the Royal Hunt cup at Ascot today.

The Elmer, owned by Lord Elmer, was half a length in front at the finish. One and a half lengths separated the second and third.

The betting was 5 to 1, 5 to 1, and 28 to 1. The cup is worth $500 and the winner receives $100,000 with extras. The distance is seven furlongs, 15 yards.

British Yacht Again

Defeats U. S. Entry

GLASGOW, Scotland, June 17.—(AP)—The British defender, Siskia, defeated the American yacht, Priscilla III, for the third consecutive time in the series of races for the Seawanhaka cup.

Siskia finished two and one-half minutes ahead of the American boat.

PLAYS SILCOX

THIS AFTERNOON

AT CHARLESTON

Atlanta Breezes Along in March to Palmetto Net Crown.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 17.—(AP)—Jack Mooney, Atlanta star, advanced to the semi-finals in the South Carolina championship tennis tournament today by completing an unfinished match with Jody Grier, Charleston, and defeating Richard Chaplin, Columbus, Ga., in the quarter-finals. He turned back Grier, 6-0, 6-0, and defeated Chaplin, 6-1, 6-2.

Mooney will meet Willard Silcox, Charleston, tomorrow. The other semi-finalists are Robert Baker, College of Charleston ace, and Jack Beckman, Charleston champion.

Grier, who also entered the junior events, will play Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., tomorrow in the semi-finals of that division.

Burtz Boulevard, Tampa, Fla., also advanced to the junior semi-finals by defeating Charles Jager, Lakeland, Fla., 6-2. He will encounter Laurence Jones, Charlotte, tomorrow.

Mooney and Boulevard paired together in the doubles to best Ernest Wenman, Charleston, and Jager, 6-1, and 6-0.

Max Schmeling's Career

No. 3—First Fight

By R. J. Scott

While wandering the streets of Muelheim in 1923, broke and jobless, Max met a friend. "Let's go to the fights," the friend suggested. Max had never seen a boxing bout and enjoyed the show, an amateur affair.

Max became a fight fan. He attended as many amateur bouts as he could afford. One night, in the Sports Club Colonia in Muelheim, a club official asked him to try the game. Max did and won his first bout by a knockout.

A manager, Herr William Fuchs, signed a contract with Max in 1924. Schmeling won his first professional fight, knocking out Hans Czapp, an ex-police man, in the fourth round. (Tomorrow—Knocked Out!)

Schmeling rose rapidly in amateur ranks. He worked as a hod carrier by day and fought at night. One night, a French soldier, pleased with Max's ring work, gave him 10 francs. Easy money! Max decided to turn pro.

LEAGUE TEAMS

PLAY TIE TODAY

Thomasville and Valdosta Play for Title at Radium Springs.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Golf teams of Thomasville and Valdosta will meet on the links at Radium Springs, near Albany, tomorrow for a contest that will settle the 1937 championship in the Georgia-Florida golf league. These two teams ended the regularly scheduled playing season on May 28 in a tie for the pennant.

It was agreed to play off the tie on a neutral course. Invitations were received from Radium Springs, East Lake in Atlanta, and Moultrie. The invitation to Radium Springs, which was the first extended, was accepted.

The six-man team that will represent Thomasville will be chosen from the following: Scottie Beverly, R. P. Winberry, Hays, J. B. Jensen, Charles H. Watt, C. K. Wall, J. P. Evans and Pat Tate.

The Valdosta team has already been announced as composed of Johnny Oliver, 1936 Georgia amateur golf champion; his brother, Billy Oliver, who has been twice champion of the Piney Woods tournaments which have been held every July in Thomasville for the past 12 years; Maxwell Oliver, who has also once been Piney Woods champion; George Converse, another Valdosta player, who once won the Piney Woods championship; Jack Oliver, who is father of the three Oliver brothers, and George Feagles, who is this year president of the Georgia-Florida golf league.

The match to be played Wednesday has created great interest all over the south Georgia-north Florida territory, and a large gallery is expected. The match is an 18-hole affair, match play, Nassau rules, six men on the team. The match will begin at 3 o'clock (eastern standard time).

Ryder Cup Golfers Predict Lighter Ball Will Not Last.

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Members of the British Ryder cup golf team don't think much of the bigger and lighter American ball but they hope the best when they see this country's leading professionals in the cup matches at Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27.

The team of ten arrived on the Aquitania last night and promptly was asked its collective opinion of the American ball, which will be used at Columbus.

"We have the handicap of wind in playing in England," said George Duncan, British veteran, who acted as temporary spokesman of the party. "We need a heavier ball. A professional golfer can adapt himself to the lighter ball but the businessman who plays the game only occasionally cannot. The result is that whenever there is any wind, golfers will have a yearning for the old ball. I myself do not believe the new ball will last more than another year."

F. J. C. Pignon, in charge of the team, put in an oral long enough to say:

Generally speaking, the American ball is not popular among British players. We used the ball in all the test matches from which our membership was selected. We realize that the American ball does not affect the professional, but it bores the score of the businessman player and he is the one who makes golf possible to the mass.

Eventually he will rebel. We give him a year to register his protest.

Making up the team are Charles A. Whitcombe, the captain; Duncan, Archie Compston, Bert Hodson, Fred Robinson, W. H. Davies, Ernest R. Whitcomb and Syd Easterbrook. Of these, all but Davies, Easterbrook and Hodson are veterans of Ryder cup play.

The Ryder cup series has been played three times, in 1926 at Wentworth, in 1927 at Worcester, Mass., and in 1928 at Leeds. Great Britain won the first two, 13 to 9 and 13 to 2. The United States won the third, 12 to 10.

Compton, Robinson and Duncan have been on all three British teams, and Mitchell, Charles and Ernest Whitcombe and Hodson on two.

Puncheon and Davies are members of the team, were heroes of the inaugural series in 1926. In that year Mitchell beat Jim Barnes, 8 and 6, and Puncheon beat Walter Hagen, 6 and 5, in singles. Then the Britons teamed up to conquer Hagen and Barnes in foursomes, 9 and 8.

After the Ryder cup series, the Britons will play in the national open at Toledo, July 2 and 3. They also plan to participate in tournaments at Chicago, Detroit and Toronto.

Accompanying the team on the Aquitania were Aubrey Bomer and Percy Allis, two English amateurs at St. Cloud, France, and Berlin, respectively. They are ineligible for Ryder cup competition but will play in the national open.

Alabama Star Wins

Brooklyn Net Match

CRESCENT A. C. BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—A trio of the seeded stars, Donald M. Frame, Harvard, No. 3; Raymond Stone, Alabama, No. 4; and Robert Little, Alabama, No. 5, led the field into the third round of the eastern intercollegiate championship singles on the campus of the Crescent Athletic Club here today.

Frame, the Harvard lawn tennis captain, bested Sidney Smitkin, of Lehigh, 6-2, 6-1. The playing of Stone was more subdued as he fought his way past Gibson McCabe, of Princeton, but he won, 6-2, 6-3.

Little, the Alabama star, contented himself with a deep court attack to defeat Harold Smith, Dartmouth, 6-3, 6-4. The day was fine for the sun drying out the turf and providing good footing.

Fred Leach Hurt

In Exhibition Game

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 17.—(AP)—The New York Giants lost the service of Fred Leach, outfielder, when he was injured today during an exhibition game between the Giants and the Toledo club of the American Association.

Leach wrenched his left knee and had to be assisted from the field. He probably will be out of the game for several days.

Braves Victorious

In Exhibition Game

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—The Boston Braves defeated the Jamestown Spiders, 2 to 1, in an exhibition game today. "Smokey" Erickson, former Washington American league pitcher, pitched for the Spiders, paying the way to his own defeat with a base on balls and a wild peg in the fourth when the Tribe scored its runs.

GRAND HOTEL

By VICKI BAUM

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

At 10 o'clock, page boy No. 18 brought a bouquet of roses. "Au revoir, beloved lips," was written on a slip of paper tucked into the petals. Grusinskaya kissed the ring with the Gaigera crest, "forté bonheur," she whispered as though to an intimate friend. Now she had something to bring her luck. Michael was right. I shall wear away the pearls for poor children as thought. Suzette in darned cotton gloves gripped the handle of the suitcase, while the luggage porter tripped out the rest. Grusinskaya had a sentimental feeling over the parting from this eventful hotel room with its wall paper that always got her nerves. Another was reserved for her at the Hotel Imperial in Vienna, her usual room overlooking the court, No. 184, with bathroom and one, too, in Rio, Paris, London, Buenos Aires. Rome—an endless perspective of hotel bedrooms with subtle doors and water laid on and the indefinable odor of restlessness and homelessness.

At ten minutes past nine, a drowsy chambermaid flittingly swept up the dust in No. 68, threw away the faded floral tributes, took out the tea tray, and finally came back with fresh linen—still damp from the iron—for the next occupant.

With the treachery common to alarm clocks, General Director Preysing failed to wake at half-past 7. At 8 o'clock the hall porter awoke him by telephone, but by that time he was far too late. Preysing hid his drowsy head under the sheet, cursing his forgotten razor. It needed no more to deprive such a slave to routine of all joy in life. In spite of being late he wasted several minutes selecting a suit to put on. And when he had decided on his morning coat, he took it off again in a fit of impatience. He calculated, and perhaps with reason—that a morning coat would put him at a disadvantage. His gray lounge suit, on the other hand, would show the Chemnitz people at whole that the whole fair meant very little to him. He made unusual haste, but by the time he had put away all his cases and oddsends, searched for, discovered, and pocketed all his keys, looked once more through his papers, and once more counted his money, it was after 9. He hurried down to the basement barber shop. There, enveloped in white sheets, like babies, sat several gentlemen waiting hopefully for the manipulations of the white-jacketed barbers. Preysing began to dance with impatience in his thick rubber-soled shoes.

"Shall I have long to wait?" he asked, rubbing his unshaven chin with his hand.

"Ten minutes at the most. There is only this gentleman ahead of you," was the reply.

The gentleman who was ahead of him was a somewhat insignificant creature, thin and diffident, and he sat squinting into a newspaper with his pince-nez almost falling off his sharp nose. Preysing was distinctly aware that he had come across the man in the course of business, but he could not recall the occasion. He went up to him and, making him a perfunctory bow, said with all the amiability he could command:

"Would you be so very kind as to let me go first? I am in a great hurry."

Kringlein, hunched together behind his paper, collected all his forces. Emerging from behind the editorial page and extending his lean neck, he blinked straight into the general director's face and replied, "No."

"Excuse me, but I am in a great hurry," Preysing stammered reproachfully.

"So am I," returned Kringlein. Preysing turned on his heels in a fury and left the barber shop. And there sat Kringlein breathing heavily in an atmosphere of shaving soaps, utterly exhausted and done-up after his prodigious effort, but a hero in triumphant possession of the field.

Behind time, unshaven, and with the tip of his tongue scalded by burning coffee, the general director was the last to enter the conference room. The others had had time to emit blentful clouds of blue cigar smoke into this room. Dr. Zinnowitz had his papers all ready, and old Gerstenkorn presided at the head of the superfluously long table. He acknowledged the new arrival by raising only slightly in his chair, for he belonged to the same close-fisted generation as Preysing's father-in-law. He had known Preysing as a young man and had no great opinion of him.

"Behind time, Preysing," he said. "Quarter of an hour's grace, eh?"

"Late night? Yes, we all know Berlin!"

He laughed with a bronchitic wheeze and pointed to a chair at his side. Preysing sat down opposite Schweinmann. He had the objectionable feeling of having got out of bed on the wrong side and his upper lip was moist under his mustache, even before the show began. Schweinmann, who had red edges to his eyelids and the large protruding and flexible mouth of an ape, introduced a third gentleman.

"Our colleague, Dr. Waitz," he said.

Dr. Waitz was a young man who looked absent-minded but was very far from being so. With his dominating and aggressive trumpet of a voice he could be a very ugly customer in a discussion. So the Chemnitz people had thought him along with them, thought Preysing.

"Well, let's get on to business," said old Gerstenkorn, in his bronchitic voice, and Zinnowitz resting his white anemic fingers on the green tablecloth began at once in a fluent and well-prepared speech to launch a statement upon the blue haze of the conference chamber. There was no occasion whatever, in his opinion, to give the Saxonia priority over the Chemnitz Company, supposing the eventual (he mouthed the word "eventual" like a strolling player) fusion between the two.

Why should this flourishing concern be brought into submission as it were, and shoved into a corner? Zinnowitz looked at Preysing, and Preysing obediently began to speak. The longer Preysing spoke in that voice of his that sounded as if it had been kept on ice, and the closer he came to grips with the business, the more around he lost. Gerstenkorn's telling little interjections whistled in the air like bullets. Preysing tied nooses and hanged himself in the middle of a sentence which had begun like a flourish of trumpets and ended like a handkerchief and wiped his mustache and lit a cigar that tasted like hay. And suddenly it occurred to him that he was sitting at the table with his hands and feet of no principle; he felt the deep embitterment of a self-respecting man who is thought of a fool for his pains.

Now, however, Gerstenkorn removed his fat common thumbs from the armholes of his waistcoat and began to state his opinion. This Kerstenkorn, with his scrubby square head and bronchitic voice, was a clear and ready speaker. He made use of every available dialect in order to say what he wished in the fewest words. His business talk was spiced with expressions from the dialects of Saxony, Berlin, Mecklenburg and from Yiddish.

"You need more capital," said Preysing, quite rightly. Gerstenkorn swept this aside with two of his fingers.

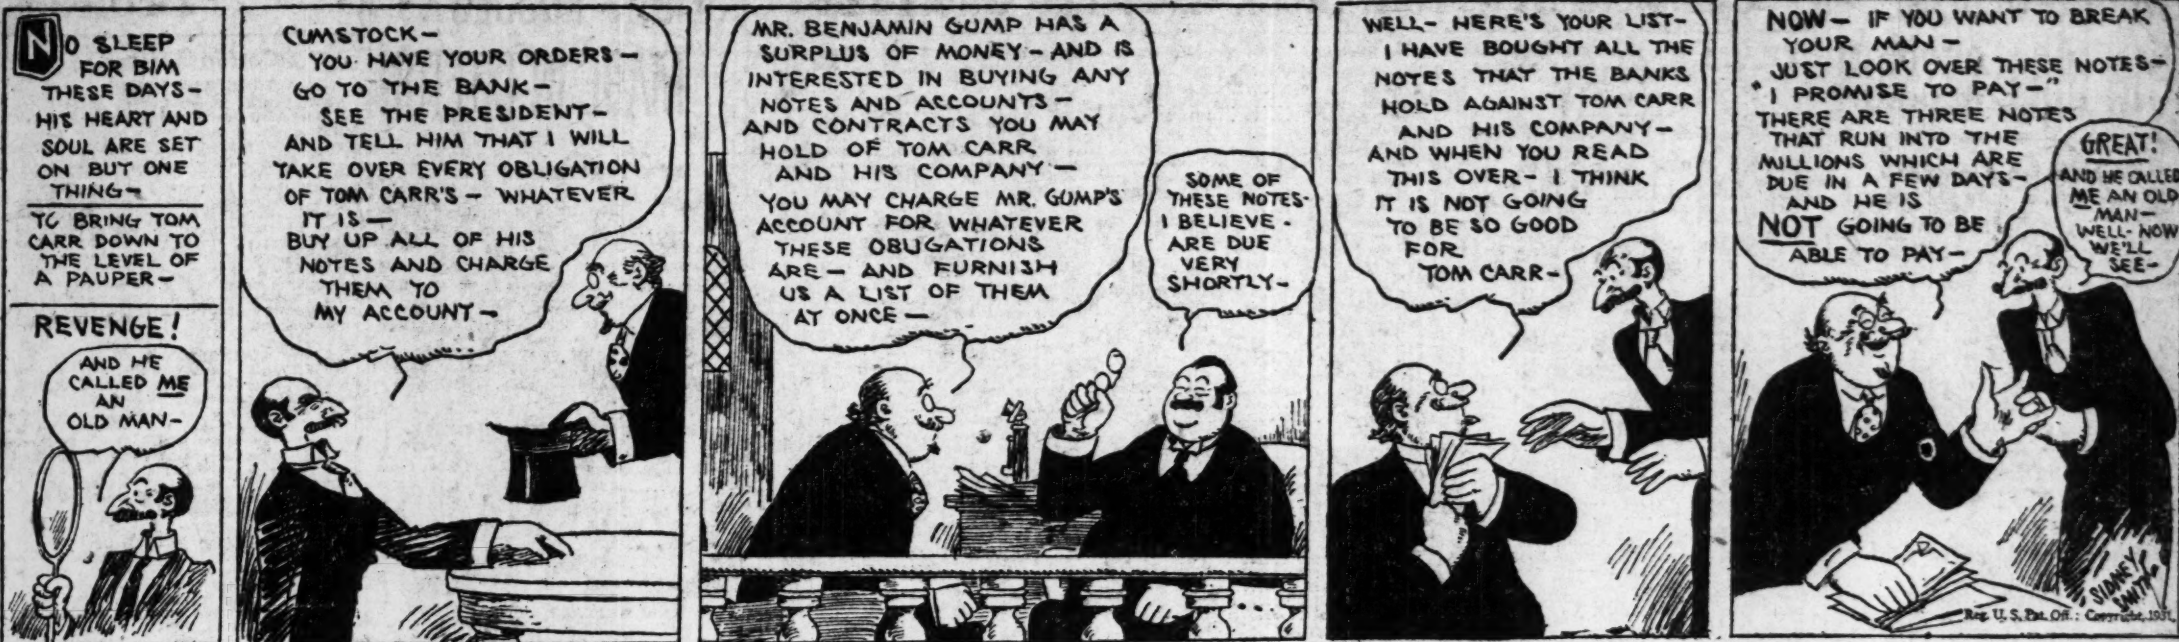

"Capital! Capital! We have only to issue shares to have all the money we want chucked at us. We don't need capital. We need cheap raw material so that we can profit to the full by our new process, and we need outlets for export abroad. I'll tell you the views of the company quite frankly, Herr Generaldirektor. If the amalgamation were of any help to us in these directors, then we're for it. Otherwise not. Now, please, if you have anything to say?"

Poor Preysing! If he had anything to say! He threw a timid glance across at Zinnowitz, but Zinnowitz was examining his well-tended bloodless fingernails and made no reply.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP)—Stocks got a taste of pre-bull market dullness today, drifting slowly lower in a turnover of approximately 350,000 shares, the smallest for a five-hour session since July 26, 1926.

The carrier group was depressed by the uncertainty of the freight rates, particularly the disclosure of deferred maintenance.

Extreme declines of 1 to 5 points in the rail stocks found other groups sympathetically heavy, although too much importance could not be placed on the recovery of the rail list because of the extreme inactivity.

A rally in the afternoon reduced the earlier losses. The average decline was not a point and a half.

Bonds were about firm.

Steel ingot production has broken the 40 per cent level and is estimated at 18 per cent over capacity. Trade reviews anticipate a further reaction, possibly to the December low, before signs of seasonal recovery appear. The May foreign trade figures were not particularly stimulating, for the favorable balance was reduced to $23,000,000 and the percentage losses from a year ago were considerable. Electric power production made an unfavorable comparison with the second week of June, 1930.

The largest net losses in the share market were found in the rail division. Atchafalaya and Union Pacific were up 4 points, New York Central, B. Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Illinois Central 2 and Nickel Plate 1-1/2.

American Can, United States Steel, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Loew's, International Telephone and Knickerbocker were off 1 to 1-1/2. General Motors was steady.

Wheat closed mostly higher, although June was half a cent off. Net changes in corn were nominal, while potatoes sagged 5 to 10 points.

Foreign exchanges were mixed.

GEORGIA BUILDING $4,356,100 IN MAY

Georgia led the six states comprising the southern territory in May construction contracts awarded, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The state's total for the month was $4,356,100, compared with $4,802,000 in April and $4,112,100 reported in new construction contracts for the entire district which, besides Georgia, comprises the Carolinas, Alabama and eastern Tennessee.

Despite general declines in the territory, five of the 12 large centers showed gains in May. They were Jacksonville with $158,700 for the month; Miami with $106,100; Tampa with $104,000; Orlando with $204,500; Nashville with $353,800.

Of the total $12,110,100 in construction contracts reported for the entire section, a nearly equal division was made among the three major classes of construction. Public works led the three with $4,802,000, followed by non-residential building with $3,803,200, and residential with $3,514,900.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 16

©1931, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

The Waziri lacqued the snowing avian herd and then, at Gridley's command, they fired. The thunderous volley had its effect upon the beasts. They hesitated, then turned and retreated. But behind them were the saber-toothed tigers. Once again they swung back in the direction of the men who were now moving rapidly toward the forest. "Here they come!" shouted Dorf. And a backward glance revealed the fact that the entire herd, goaded to terror by the tigers behind them, had broken into a mad stampede.
